

Wilmington High School Class of 2010

By KERRI STINSON

WILMINGTON - The School Committee, Superintendent of Schools, State Representative, Town Manager, Wilmington High School faculty, administration, family and friends gathered to watch the Class of 2010, which included 216 students, graduate from Wilmington High School in Lawrence H. Cushing Gymnasium at Wilmington High School on June 6 at 2:00 p.m.

Looking around the gym, every seat in the bleachers was filled and people lined against the wall with flowers in hand and cameras ready to capture the moment. The graduates entered the gym to "Pomp and Circumstance March No. 1" by Sir Edward Elgar, which was played by the WHS band, as family and friends cheered and cameras flashed all around to snap the first of many photographs of this memorable day.

This ceremony was not only memorable for the graduates and all in attendance, but for Michael Nee, assistant principal of WHS, because he will

Tri-Town Development

Town looks for hotel potential

By JAYNE W. MILLER

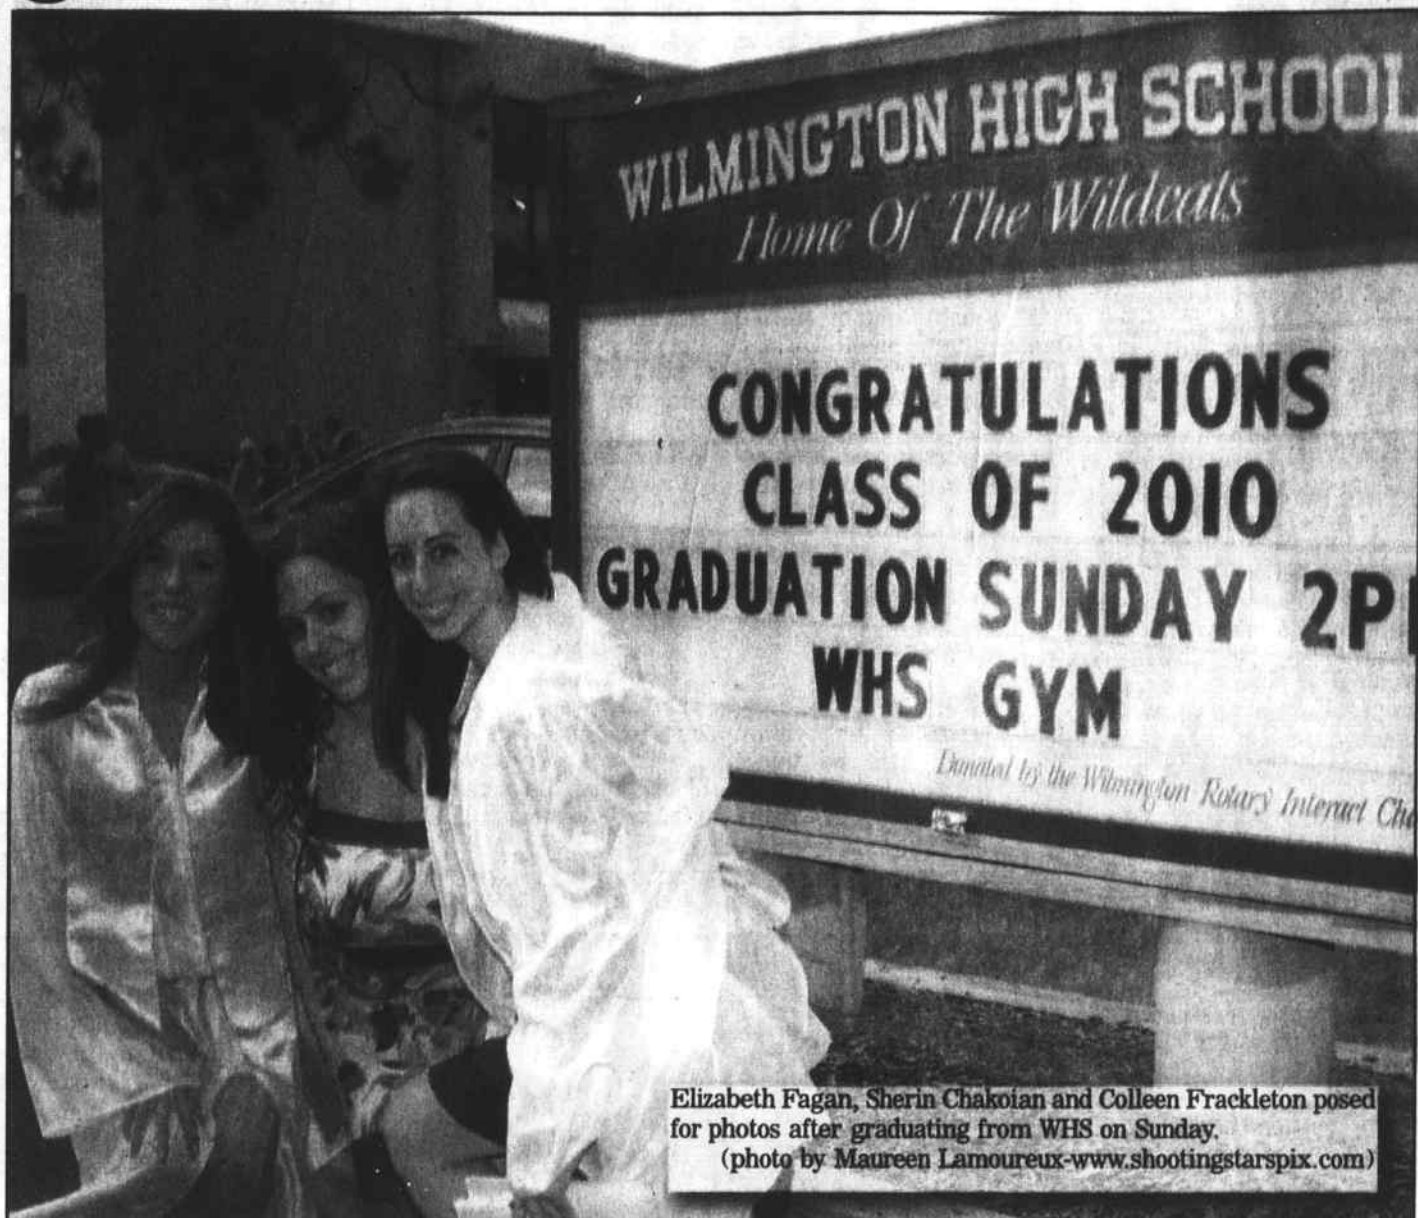

WILMINGTON - Three planning boards met in Wilmington Town Hall Tuesday night to hear a presentation on form based code for the Tri-Town development area. The Tri-Town development area is the parcel of undeveloped land surrounding the proposed Interstate 93 interchange to be built between the Route 125 and Dascomb Road exits. The code does not include plans for a shopping mall nor housing on Tewksbury parcels. In Wilmington, the code calls for an employment park, which will accommodate plans for a hotel down the road.

Between Andover, Tewksbury and Wilmington there are about 1,190 acres, the bulk in Andover with 550, Wilmington next with 370 and 270 in Tewksbury. However, after the consulting firm considered wetlands, easements, and habitats the land suitable for development is decreased by about one-half to 395 in Andover, 95 in Tewksbury, and 101 acres in Wilmington.

In September, the consulting firm Ferrell Madden Lewis, LLC began holding charettes in the three towns to engage residents in the design process. The first was held at Tewksbury Town Hall and the second in Andover last January. The code sets parameters for the style of building as well as the land-use and includes standards for facades, street types and streetscapes, parking, squares and greens, acceptable tree lists, and more.

Shawsheen Tech graduation

By CRISSY KENNEY

BILLERICA - Due to rain, the Shawsheen Valley Technical High School graduation was moved a day after its originally scheduled date. Luckily, the class of 2010 was blessed with a sunny sky on June 4 as the students patiently waited to receive their diplomas.

Megan Healey, an officer of the class, informed the audience of the $4.7 million health education wing that will soon be built into the school before introducing Superintendent Charles Lyons.

"So when you get a chance, put away the cell phone, stop texting for a day, shut off the computer, put away the games, and be a good neighbor," Lyons asked the seniors, after he thanked the parents and faculty for their contributions toward the students' various successes. Lyons reminded the graduates that

Relay For Life on pace to surpass last year's record funds

Event was #2 in the nation among 2009 New Relays

WILMINGTON - Being the 2009 number one new Relay in New England also meant the local event grabbed the distinction of being the number two new fundraiser nationwide. This year's report shows that Wilmington's Relay For Life has not lost any momentum. Current fundraising numbers predict another successful event.

"It's exciting and sometimes it seems unreal," says Kim Martiniello, Registration & Finance Chair. "Last year the American Cancer Society set our goal at $25,000. We raised over $162,000. But for this year, the critical fund raising time is now. The Relay is just over a week away, and we need the same big push now that we had the week prior to last year's Relay."

The June 18 Relay will be an overnight event. It provides people with an opportunity to come together and share in the message of hope. Cancer survivors, their loved ones and others from the community celebrate, remember and fight back against the disease. Teams of people will camp out at the high school and take turns walking around the track. Each team is asked to have a representative on the track at all times during the event, because cancer never sleeps. Teams are raising funds in a variety of ways. They get online donations, hold bake sales, drawings, host fitness events, and any other thing they can think of to fight back against cancer.

The Relay begins at 5:00 p.m., and everyone is invited to stop by for the celebration. It is open to the public from 5:00 p.m. to 11:00 p.m. on Friday June 18, and then on Saturday from 6:00 a.m. until

Bring Back the 4th

WILMINGTON - Want to help Wilmington's Fourth of July Committee receive a check for $10,000?

Liberty Mutual is conducting a Bring Back the 4th Contest to assist towns across America. In recent years, many towns were forced to cancel their 4th of July activities and events due to insufficient funding.

This year Liberty Mutual is helping towns fund their fireworks or a parade by hosting a contest allowing towns across America to compete for $10,000 Bring Back the 4th grants. Liberty Mutual is offering a total of 10 grants that will be divided between small, medium and large communities.

You can help Wilmington earn a grant, too. Go to the Liberty Mutual website BringBackThe4th.com and take a brief quiz on "Responsible Moments in U.S. History." Each completed quiz counts as one credit towards a BringBackThe4th.com visitor's town, and credits are earned by quiz completion alone - quiz scores do not affect standings.

The 10 U.S. towns that successfully encourage the highest quiz participation among their residents will be eligible to win $10,000 grants. Winners will be notified and announced during the week of June 14.

The few simple rules are as follows. Only one quiz may be taken per person. Grants may only be used for Fourth of July events. The last day to take the quiz is June 14.

WILMINGTON - This year Wilmington High School's Class of 2010 decided to devote a day of their "Senior Week" to completing a community service project for the Town of Wilmington. Many of the students felt they wanted to give back to the community that has supported them throughout their educational careers. The Class Officers and Advisors Michelle Hooper and Tracey Kassin worked with Town Manager Michael Cairra, Superintendent of Schools Joanne Benton and Superintendent of Public Buildings George Hooper to develop a plan.

The students were interested in fixing up the rock shaped "W" located in the Fourth of July parking lot. This platform is a source of pride for the school and town. At the suggestion of Mr. Hooper, the students also decided to work on repainting the railing of the gazebo that sits on the Town Common by the Fourth of July building. Mr. Hooper was very excited to have this project completed before the

Within this plan are seven different character districts with separate and distinct design plans. In the northern portion of the site is a river-front district on the shores of the Shawsheen River. On the east side of I-93 is an 'infill' district where development will fill in around existing large corporations already in place, such as Pfizer and Wyeth. A mixed-use site is also planned which includes retail, housing, office, and other uses. A small portion of that district is in the Tewksbury parcel to the east of the highway.

On the west side of the highway, Tewksbury's main portion is a mixed-use commerce center, which does not include residential use. The parcel, currently owned by Simon Property Group, LLC, is slated for a pedestrian-friendly area. A second Tewksbury parcel, what is now Krochmal Farm, could be rezoned as an employment park someday down the road. Should that ever happen, if the three planning boards accept the code, the district includes retention of current residential code around the homes adjacent to the site, along with a 200-foot setback, which coincides with some of the environmental constraints. The district is also meant to be out of sight, so the buildings will have the greatest latitude as to facade choices within certain parameters.

On the other side of the mixed use commerce center is the Wilmington parcel, designated also as an employment park, here the focus is about jobs. According to Wilmington Planning and Development director, Carole Hamilton, the employment park district will allow for a hotel, part of Wilmington's interest in developing the land.

The code further includes streamlined processes for the development of the site, within the approval processes of each town as well as common code across the towns so developers do not have to chase needs around the country. For those minor developments of less than 40,000 square feet, the process suggests that it could be approved administratively, rather than through planning boards. It's a measure that may not survive the review process from the three planning boards.

"I thought tonight was a great first night," said Tewksbury's Community Development Director, Steve Sadwick. "I am very pleased with the turnout and the questions. I think we all have some work to do, but nothing insurmountable."

Likewise Carole Hamilton, who chaired the meeting, said she thought it went, "very well, and good questions were asked."

One Wilmington resident, who preferred to remain anonymous, said he would "wait and see" how the plans turn out. "I see too many issues. Will the interchange dictate the development?"

The major interchange designs are incorporated into this draft of the form based code, so that on maps readers can determine where the ramps will likely be placed. However, the interchange is still in the state and federal environmental study process.

The comment period for the public begins now and has been extended to six weeks, closing July 20, 2010, so that residents have the time to react to the code. Documents including the details of the code can be found at each town's planning offices or online at <http://www.vhb.com/tri-townfbc/documents.asp>.

their shops have fully prepared them for the working field, and the academic programs have readied them for college. He beamed like a proud parent as he listed off several of the accomplishments the seniors had fulfilled in just one year, including Skills USA awards, a competition designed to test the skills and knowledge of technical high school students, and impeccable MCAS scores.

Guest speaker, State Senator Kenneth Donnelly, was next to address the audience. Donnelly was a public servant for approximately 36 years, and his interest in education is reflected through his political inclination toward the educational system. Donnelly began his address by reminiscing about his own graduation and his accompanying relief to finally "be done." He described the students in their caps and gowns as accomplished, and he noted that the class had a 96% per day attendance rate.

The senator explained that he did not plan for a career in legislation when he graduated high school. He worked in the heating, ventilation, and air conditioning field and as a firefighter before discovering his political path.

"Life will lead you in ways never expected," Donnelly warned as he reminded the audience of the shaky economy. "There is much uncertainty out there."

After his warning, however, Donnelly reassured the students, explaining that the trades they have studied over the past four years "can't be outsourced" and are still necessary and relevant fields.

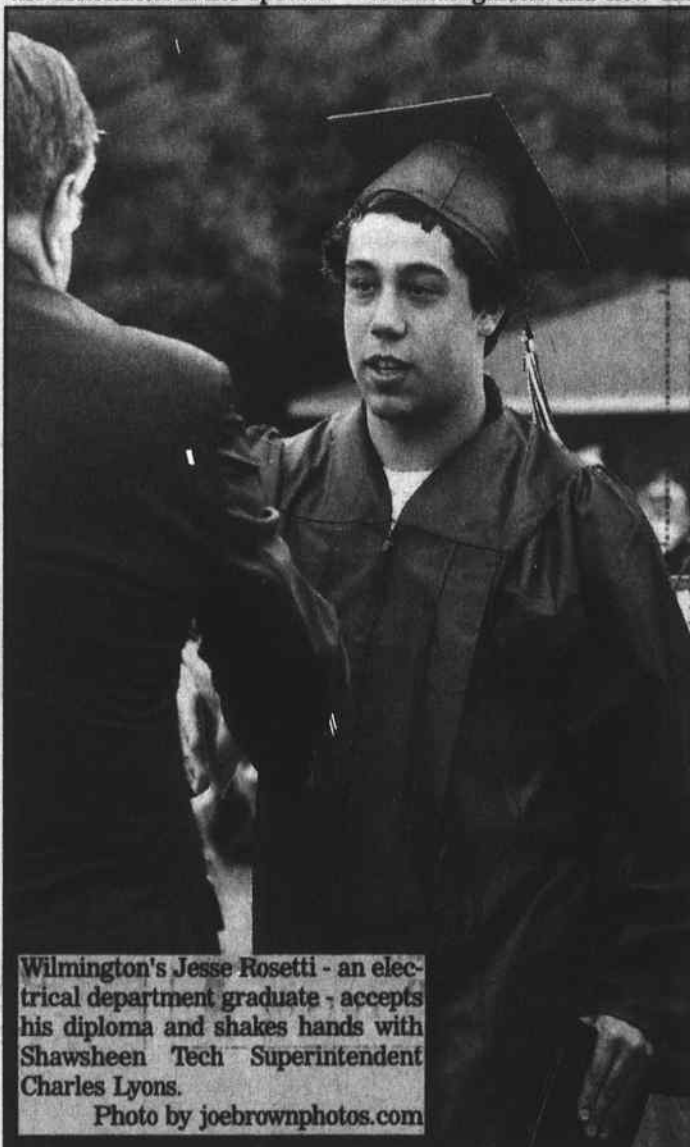

"Enjoy your summer," he concluded. "You've earned it."

The Salutatorian of the class, Jaclyn Robichaud of Billerica, spoke about the role models each student had in his or her life. She explained who her role models were - including her shop teachers, parents, and grandfather.

Robichaud explained that because of her family's guidance, she learned early on that being true to oneself is important. She expressed her appreciation for her family's support.

"Take advice from those closest to you; they will never steer you wrong," she said at the conclusion of her speech.

eral different fundraisers and school dances, Robinson remarked about her first day of kindergarten and how far Wilmington's Jesse Rosetti - an electrical department graduate - accepts his diploma and shakes hands with Shawsheen Tech Superintendent Charles Lyons.

Traditionally, the Valedictorian and the Class President both speak at graduation, but Lyndsay Robinson of Tewksbury held both titles. Robinson, like Robichaud, thanked her family and friends for helping her during her time in high school. She discussed the various accomplishments her class has made, such as the hockey team competing in the Eastern Massachusetts Championship in 2009.

Throughout her speech, Robinson highlighted several classmates who have enlisted in the military.

"The education we have received from our towns and here at Shawsheen Tech has made us ready for the next step in our lives, but none of this would be possible if it wasn't for the men and women who put their lives on the line every day," she said.

After briefly explaining sev-she has truly come.

"Our years here have been the best four years of our lives, and this school is the very place where we began to define ourselves," she said. "Every single one of us has the potential to be successful, but it is up to us to make things happen," she later warned.

Once each student had received his or her diploma, Principal Robert E. Cunningham asked the students to switch over their tassels, signifying their completion of high school. When the seniors tossed their caps in the air out of celebration, a cloud of purple formed in the sunny sky above, and audience members cheered for the accomplished seniors. Shawsheen Tech's graduating class of 2010 had finally done it.

Outdoor Club a success at Tech

BILLERICA - It was the ultimate compliment.

And, it was a true indicator of how successful Jessica Cook's Outdoor Club at Shawsheen Valley Technical High School had become.

"At the end of the trip," Cook said with a laugh. "I heard one of the kids say, 'This is better than TV.'"

Cook, a first-year history teacher at Shawsheen Tech, didn't waste any time making an impact at the school. A veteran of the camping and hiking world, Cook received permission to start an Outdoor Club at Shawsheen Tech and led groups of students on two separate trips to New Hampshire this spring. The club had its first trip April 9 and 10 and the second one on May 1 and 2.

In all, 16 students participated in the group, with eight going on the first trip and the other eight going to the second trip. Both excursions went to Bristol, N.H. where the group climbed Mount Firescrew and stayed at the Cardigan Lodge.

The trips cost each student less than $40.

"All of the kids were excited about it," said Cook. "Some had [hiked] before and others had never done it, but really wanted to challenge themselves. They all came out of it saying, 'When is the next trip?'"

"This is what makes Shawsheen significantly different from most systems," said Superintendent/Director Charles Lyons. "We have teachers that dedicate themselves, sometimes on weekends, to work with the young people and make sure they experience all types of activities."

Cook was joined by Shawsheen teacher Todd Karkane, another outdoor enthusiast.

"Just absolutely phenomenal," said Karkane of the trips. "The fact that [Cook] did this in her first year here is absolutely amazing to me. I felt safe and prepared the whole time. She always kept safety in mind."

Cook actually ran safety classes for club members after school and reviewed aspects of the trip such as hydration, map reading and keeping warm during the courses.

"Jessica and Todd really demonstrate what the word teaching is all about," said Lyons. "It's consistent to what many other educators do here at Shawsheen Tech. They give of themselves to make our school what it is."

The trips ended up benefiting several groups of students.

When Cook, who also helped out with an outdoor club in her previous teaching job in Cambridge, started planning things in September, she called on Shawsheen's technical illustration students to draw up posters and the graphic arts students to make laminated copies that were spread throughout the hallways.

She also had the club promoted on the morning announcements.

Even on the hiking trips, Shawsheen Tech students were able to put their academic skills to good use.

"We stayed in the lodge," said Cook. "[The students] cooked and cleaned and did everything themselves basically. It really was their trip, and we ate a lot of food."

Cook has a few rules that wouldn't generally seem popular to teenagers, including no cell phones and no televisions (the one device that is allowed, of course, is a camera), but the students never complained. They just had fun.

"We get there early on a Saturday and hike all day," she said. "And then we come home on Sunday. I don't think '1,500 feet in elevation' means anything to people until they experience it."

Through her relationship with the Appalachian Mountain Club, Cook is also able to provide boots and rain gear to the students.

"The kids really appreciate what she's done," Karkane said. "Both groups had different successes and handled it in a completely different way, and both ways were an incredible experience."

It's Your Money

HELP THE GRANDCHILDREN NOW

What's better than leaving money in your will for your children and grandchildren?

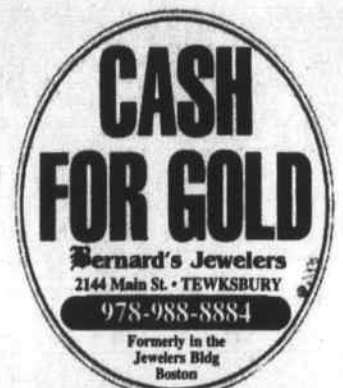

Helping them now with the funds they need for educational and medical expenses. The kids are able to appreciate the gifts; the grandparents can hear the thank yous.

There are simple ways to do this. You can give $13,000 in cash or other assets to as many people as you want, without incurring any gift or generation-skipping taxes. Spouses can give the same amount, adding up to an impressive $26,000 per person. Gifts to minors can go into a custodial account - but the donor must not be the custodian of the account. The custodian-parent can use the money to fund enrichments like summer camp and dance lessons.

Another tax-free way to move money is with Section 529 savings plans. A grandparent can also pay tuition, medical and dental expenses directly without using the annual gift exclusion. But lending money calls for loan documents and charging interest.

Save on taxes now and later. We'll show you how at

Letters to the editor

4th Annual Murph's Fun Run

Dear Editor,
The Jerry Murphy Memorial Scholarship fundraiser was another huge success this year because of help from so many. Please accept our deepest thanks and appreciation to all who assisted in allowing four more Tewksbury Memorial High students to receive scholarships next year. The businesses and personal sector went above and beyond anything we ever expected. Listed below are the wonderful individuals & companies who donated from their pocketbooks and their hearts and the people and businesses who allowed the challenges to take place on or in their establishments. Hopefully we have not missed anyone. Not listed are over 100 workers without who this race would have never taken place. Our deepest gratitude goes out to you all!

Tewksbury VFW Post 8164 Buddy Poppy Drive a success

Dear Editor,
The biggest success yet in the years of Tewksbury's Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 8164 Buddy Poppy Drive was held Friday and Saturday May 28 and 29. And because of the warmth and generosity of so many, more than 2,500 now wear the red poppy. Organized by Post Commander Vinnie Oliva and six other Post members, including George Flibotte, Bill Paquette, Don Sheehan, Bob Hunter, Jim Williams, and Dave Leblanc, they spent two days for over twenty hours combined at both Market Baskets in Tewksbury Store #22 and #08 as well as Tewksbury's Wal-Mart Store. The money collected will be distributed to veterans' relief causes.

A warm and sincere thank you to Market Baskets and Wal-Mart and everyone who contributed to the Buddy Poppy Drive.

Have you had enough?

Dear readers,
I read in the paper recently that Governor Deval Patrick is pushing for a bill to limit gun owners to buying one gun a month. Yes, it is true that gun violence is a problem. I do not believe that the Governor is wrong about that, just that he is wrong-headed. Pass that law and who will obey? Only the law abiding person.

Given the governor's liberal leanings I am not surprised. As a friend once said to me, "If a conservative does not want a gun, that person just does not go out and buy one. If a liberal does not want a gun they make sure that no one else can have one either."

If you believe in true freedom and in the Constitution, then owning a gun should be an individual choice. It never occurs to the libs that maybe by enforcing the law gun violence has been and can be reduced.

Keep allowing persons like that to dictate what they want. What will they think of next - "lock up our steak knives"? Call the governor's office, call your state rep and your state senator; let them know how you feel on the issue. This is an election year - have you not had enough of dictatorship by liberalism?

Respectfully Submitted

Huge children's book sale at Book Store Next Door

WILMINGTON -- The Book Store Next Door already has the best prices for children's books around - 50 cents for paperbacks and $1 for hardcovers! The best, however, has just gotten better! Until the end of June, all children's books are "Buy One, Get One Free."

Best-selling and award-winning author to speak at library

TEWKSBURY - Visit the Tewksbury Public Library on Wednesday nights this June to hear local authors discuss their latest works. Next week's "Behind the Book" author talk features historical fiction writer David S. Brody, author of Cabal of the Westford Knight. David S. Brody, a Boston Globe best-selling fiction writer, was recently named "Boston's Best Local Author" by the Boston Phoenix. (Note: You do not have to read the book to enjoy this wonderful program.)

On Wednesday, June 16 at 6:30 p.m., David S. Brody will lead a lively, informative, entertaining and educational discussion on his latest book. While Cabal of the Westford Knight is a work of fiction, its premise rests on firm ground, according to Brody. "Numerous artifacts and sites in and around New England clearly evidence a history of pre-Columbian discover and exploration of North America. Specifically, the evidence points to a group of Northern Europeans island-hopping across the North Atlantic in the late 1300s." Brody examines who these explorers were and why they came to America in his latest masterpiece.

Cabal of the Westford Knight: Templars at Newport Tower (Martin and Lawrence Press/January 2009), by David S. Brody, received the following positive review from Publisher's Weekly: Lawyer Cameron Thorne is trying to help an elderly couple keep their home when he finds himself dangerously immersed in an ancient conspiracy. Forced on the run with researcher Amanda, with deadly stalkers from two extremist factions hot on their trail, they begin to piece together information that ties together clues scattered across the Northeast. These clues reveal centuries old efforts by the Catholic Church to suppress information about Prince Henry Sinclair and the Templars that could tear the church apart if they survive long enough to reveal them. Brody delves right into the historical fiction field made so trendy by works like The Da Vinci Code and picks up where they leave off. The novel is extremely well-researched and self-aware, and Brody does a terrific job of wrapping his research in a fast-paced thrill ride that will feel far more like an action film than an academic paper, though both elements are distinctly present.

David S. Brody serves as Director of the New England Antiquities Research Association (NEARA) and is an expert on the subject of pre-Columbian exploration of America. A graduate of Tufts University and Georgetown Law School, David resides in Westford, Massachusetts with his wife, novelist Kimberly Scott, and their two daughters. Learn more about the author at his website www.davidbrodybooks.com.

Doors open at 6:15 p.m. The event begins at 6:30 p.m. Registration is strongly recommended as it aids the presenter and library staff in planning. Register by visiting the library's online calendar (www.tewksburypl.org) or calling the Reference Desk at 978-640-4490 ext. 207. Seating is limited to 50. Light refreshments will be provided. A door prize will be awarded.

This event is FREE thanks to the generosity of the Friends of the Tewksbury Public Library. The Friends of the Tewksbury Public Library's Friendly Little Bookshop will be open prior to the event.

Situated in suburban north Boston, Top Garden has firmly established itself as one of the best Chinese restaurants in the region and continues to improve, setting trends in both design and cuisine.

With Top Garden's major refurbishment boasting a larger and more comfortable dining area, the emphasis has been to put the oriental elements and design into Top Garden, setting it apart from other Chinese restaurants in the region. This "A La Carte" contemporary restaurant serves stylish Chinese and Thai foods with additional authentic Sichuan style specialties prepared by Mr. Li, an accomplished chef from New York City. Top Garden has managed to successfully combine all the buzz of a little local joint with the panache of a real Chinese food style - this makes it a winner when it comes to a different lunch choice as well as night out.

Wilmington Minutemen to retire flags in ceremony on Flag Day; Monday, June 14

Over the past year, the Wilmington Minutemen have been collecting unserviceable US flags at Wilmington Town Hall and Wilmington Post Office. They will be retiring the flags by burning (as opposed to burning flags) at Wilmington Minutemen Headquarters (located behind the Harnden Tavern on Salem Street) in North Wilmington. This will be held at 6 p.m. on Flag Day, Monday, June 14th. The Wilmington Minutemen have been doing this since 2002 when founding member, Frank Curley noticed that many of the flags flown as a result of September 11th were getting tattered and were in need of replacement.

Since 2002, the company has conducted this event on an annual basis.

This event is open to the public and they encourage everyone to attend. They have a couple hundred flags folded in triangles, ready to be retired. If anyone has a flag to be retired, they are welcome to bring those as well.

Especially welcome are Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Cubs and Brownies, members of the active military service, and veterans.

Nathan Harvey completes Eagle Scout project

WILMINGTON - On Saturday, May 15, members of Boy Scout Troop 56 gathered to help Nathan Harvey complete his Eagle Scout project at the West Intermediate School. His project was the installation of a bridge and path to provide students with an alternative to walking through the parking lot when heading from the school to the baseball field. In addition to building the bridge, Scouts helped clear brush, spread woodchips, and clean up trash.

Getting ready for the project was no easy feat. After contacting area organizations and choosing a benefactor, Eagle Scout candidates must complete and file a project proposal with their troop and the local Boy Scouts of America council. Proposals include information such as the structural design, bills of material, material cost, labor estimates, and any other pertinent information. Because this project was carried out on town property it also needed to be coordinated with and approved by the School Department, the DPW, and the Building Inspector. Additionally, Massachusetts General Laws dictate that all work within 100 feet of wetlands must be permitted by the Conservation Commission. Obtaining the Conservation Committee's approval required a site visit and a presentation to the Committee. After the project was completed a follow-up meeting with the Commission allowed for comments.

Saturday and Sunday 30th annual art exhibition

WILMINGTON - The Wilmington Arts Council is pleased to announce that the Annual Art Show will be held on Saturday, June 12th, 2010 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and on Sunday, June 13th, 2010 from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. at the Wilmington Arts Center (old Town Hall) at 219 Middlesex Avenue. There will be a reception for all participating artists on Friday evening, June 11th from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. The categories include oils and acrylics, watercolor, photography, and other mediums. The show will be judged by three professional artists and ribbons will be awarded in all categories.

The Art show is one of Wilmington's premier cultural events which showcases the works of many local artists. Louise Anderson, Sara Brook, Jane Crane, and Marge Elia will be painting at the show on Saturday afternoon and there will be a special musical presentation by Bruce Margeson at the grand piano on Sunday from 1 - 4 p.m. This is a great opportunity for a weekend of art with family and friends in Wilmington.

Spectacular Support!!!

The Fourth of July Committee and the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce offer thanks to the more than 100 guests who attended last week's fundraiser luncheon. "Once again, the fundraiser was a success and every year we seem to raise more money for the Fourth of July Committee to put towards the July 4th fireworks. The success is attributed to the outstanding support from Chamber, Rotary Club and K of C members - we can't thank you enough for taking time out of your day to ensure that Wilmington's holiday celebration is truly spectacular!" says Nancy Vallee, Chamber Executive Director. Thanks go out also to Sir Speedy for printing the tickets, the K of C for their hospitality, Designs by Don for donating the centerpieces and AJ's Kitchen for the delicious buffet. Additional donations from Dello Russo-Cavanaugh Funeral Home, Charles River Laboratories, and Ann Linehan are likewise appreciated. The Family Fireworks will be held on Friday, July 2nd and the Spectacular Fireworks display will take place on Saturday, July 3rd. Visit www.funonthefourth.com for a complete calendar of events. Red Cross blood drive at Congregational Church

WILMINGTON - On Monday, June 14, from 2 p.m. to 7 p.m., the American Red Cross and Cub Scout pack 156 are holding a blood drive at the Congregational Church at 220 Middlesex Avenue, Wilmington, to support the community blood supply for patients in need. Every two seconds, someone in the United States needs blood, and every pint donated could save up to three lives.

Local residents named to Dean's List at WPI

WORCESTER - The following local residents were among 874 students from Worcester Polytechnic Institute (WPI) named to the university's Dean's List for academic excellence for the spring 2010 semester.

Steven Southard of Tewksbury is a junior majoring in Mechanical Engineering.

Lee Joan Villafuerte of Wilmington is a freshman majoring in Chemical Engineering.

Craig Melillo of Wilmington is a freshman majoring in Management Engineering.

The criteria for the WPI Dean's List differ from most other universities as WPI does not compute a grade point average (GPA). Instead, WPI defines the Dean's List by the amount of work completed at the "A" level in courses and projects.

"WPI is home to some of this nation's brightest students," said Provost and Senior Vice President John Orr. "Whether studying science, engineering, math, business, or the humanities, they are committed to obtaining a deep understanding of fundamental concepts and also to putting those concepts into action, while developing broadly as adults in today's complex society. We are exceptionally proud of these young men and women, and we applaud their commitment to excellence."

About Worcester Polytechnic Institute

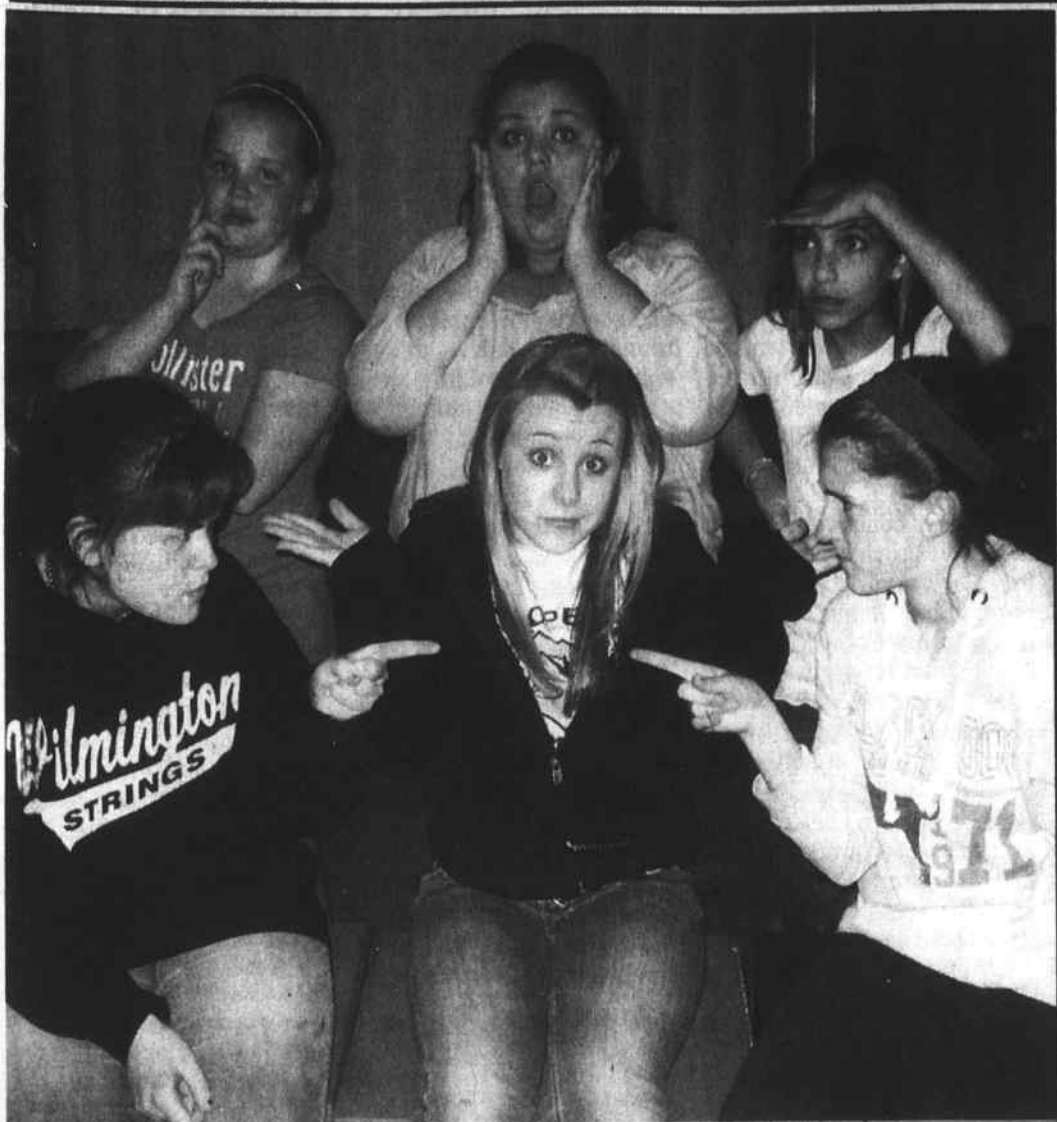

Founded in 1865 in

Worcester, Mass., WPI was one of the nation's first engineering and technology universities. WPI's 14 academic departments offer more than 50 undergraduate and graduate degree programs in science, engineering, technology, management, the social sciences, and the humanities and arts, leading to bachelor's, master's and PhD degrees.

During Wilmington High School's Academic Awards and Scholarship Night, Friday, June 4, 2010, graduating senior Katerina Reilly was awarded the Paul Revere Bowl. This award, which is given in recognition of outstanding contribution to the class and to the school, is presented by the faculty of Wilmington High School to its choice of the most deserving student. Katerina is shown with Wilmington's beloved Mr. Frank Kelley, who started the award 45 years ago.

MT Care Navigators signs with Partners Home Care

Will educate customers on Partners' elder care services

WILMINGTON - MT Care Navigators, the state's most comprehensive healthcare concierge network, announces that it has signed Partners Home Care as a preferred provider.

As a result of this agreement, MT Care Navigators, which connects patients and families with a wide variety of medical resources, will educate its extensive client base - as well as the general public - about Partners Home Care's myriad elder care options including skilled nursing and rehabilitation, lifeline, private care, and hospice. This will be accomplished through various marketing and informational avenues, such as linkage on MT Care's Web site, access to MT Care's media contacts, networking with hundreds of other providers, and various community-based events.

According to Marlene Sheehy and Teresa Burns, founders of MT Care Navigators, bringing in preferred providers such as Partners Home Care is a case of the "best partnering with the best."

"Partners Home Care provides unparalleled home based health and supportive services for people of all ages, whether they are managing a chronic illness, recovering from surgery, or choosing to remain in their homes," said Sheehy, a registered nurse who started MT Care Navigators with Burns at the end of 2009. "MT Care Navigators is the premier healthcare concierge network for bringing together the public to the best healthcare options available. It is a natural fit for us to be representing Partners Home Care in this endeavor."

Chris Attaya, President of Partners Home Care agrees, citing MT Care's wide reach as a way to bring its message of quality elder care to a broad audience.

"We are confident in our ability to provide home care for a wide variety of diagnoses and unique medical needs," said Attaya. "By aligning ourselves with MT Care Navigators, we have the opportunity to collaborate with a quality organization that helps people understand their healthcare choices. We look forward to working with MT Navigators in our quest to meet the needs of patients in their home environments."

As one of the region's largest home care providers, Partners Home Care is dedicated to delivering the highest-quality services available at home, where the comfort and security of familiar surroundings can greatly enhance quality of life.

Established in 2009, MT Care Navigators was founded as a free service to help patients and family members "navigate" through the maze of healthcare choices and assist them in making the best decision for their specific medical situation.

While "standard" services such as selecting assisted living facilities, evaluating hospice care, and recommending support groups are available, the company also offers resources for elder law, transportation, meal planning, even pet sitting, making MT Care Navigators the most comprehensive service of its kind. More information is available by calling (888) 682-2730 or on the company's Web site at www.mtcarenavigators.com.

Partners Home Care (PHC) is one of the region's largest non-profit home health care providers, offering a full array of home health care, hospice and private care services in homes, assisted living communities, and nursing homes throughout Eastern Massachusetts. It is a member of Partners HealthCare, an integrated health care system founded by Brigham and Women's Hospital and Massachusetts General Hospital, and was named to the 2009 HomeCare Elite list of the nation's top home health agencies. For more information please visit www.partnershomecare.org.

be retiring at the end of the year after thirty-eight years of service to the Wilmington Public School System, making it his final graduation.

To begin the ceremony, Olivia Fuller, class president, recited the pledge of allegiance. Then, the graduates of the WHS band joined the band for the last time to perform the "Star Spangled Banner."

Following that performance, the speeches began with Michael Caira, Town Manager, who, after making a joke about the heat in the gym, talked about the late coaching legend John Wooden. Caira quoted a she deemed appropriate for the occasion, which were "The Little Engine That Could" by Watty Piper as well as "I Knew You Could!" by Craig Dorfman.

Benton went on to read the story "I Knew You Could!" which included the following excerpt:

"There's more about life that you'll learn as you go, because figuring things out on your own helps you grow. Just trust in yourself and you'll climb every hill. Say, 'I think I can!' and you know what? 'You will.'"

Eric Tracy, Principal of WHS, presented the Principal's Award to Cole Carter who Tracy described

Although some of us will leave Wilmington, I don't think we will forget the value of community, which has been a prominent part of our education during the past twelve years," Campbell said.

In Musicant's speech, she talked about how someone recently reminded her to "savor life, rather than race through it," because "we're all way more concerned with the next steps of our lives, rather than the step we're taking right now." She reminded her fellow classmates that this day is one that they have been looking forward to for a long time and that they should enjoy it. Musicant ended her speech

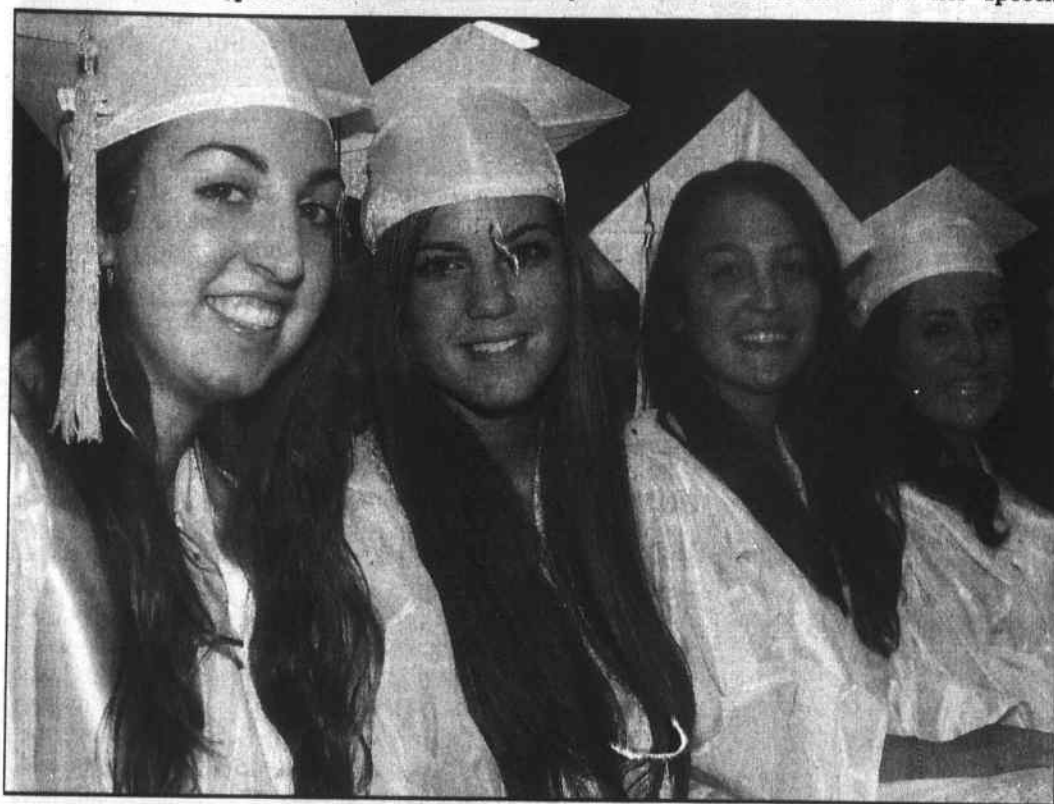

Mooney to share a piece of advice, Mooney turned to the wisdom of the fortune cookie that read "friendly heart and well admired."

Mooney closed by saying "of course, there are times in life when even a cookie from Brooklyn can't put it right, when finding adequate words is tremendous work. So on a day like today, there's not much I can say except," and then he blew a noisemaker to celebrate the Class of 2010 in their accomplishment.

Following Mooney's speech, WHS English teacher, Maura Lynch was awarded the Teacher of the Year by the Class of 2010. Lynch thanked the graduates for this award and told them that when she was teaching them, she never felt like she was coming to a job. "The Class of 2010 is truly irreplaceable," Lynch said.

After the last diploma was handed out, Tracey Kassins, class advisor, told the graduates to move over their tassels and that "for the final time, class is dismissed." At that moment, the WHS band began to play "Pomp and Circumstance March No. 1" and the graduates threw their hats into the air and exited the gym to embark on their post-WHS journey.

famous saying of Wooden's, which was "success is a journey, not a destination."

Caira went on to praise the Class of 2010 as a being very community-orientated and thanked them for all the work they had done over the years. Leaving the class of 2010 with a final thought, Caira reminded the graduates to be mindful of their actions such as, "to think about what you say before you say it...think about what you write before you write it."

After Caira spoke, Margaret Kane, Chairperson of the School Committee, addressed the crowd and thanked everyone for coming. Kane went on to give special thanks to the graduates.

"You are our future and we thank you for preparing yourselves," Kane said. Closing out her speech, Kane said, "destiny is not a matter of chance, but a matter of choice," reminding the graduates that it is up to them to shape their future.

Next, Joanne Benton, superintendent of schools, continued the theme of controlling your own destiny by reminding everyone of two well-known children's books that as a person whom he felt, "has blue blood running through his veins."

After awarding Carter with the Principal's Award, Tracy presented the graduates with a question: "What will you do when you blow a call?" Tracy went on to relate his question to the recent call made by umpire Jim Joyce, whose mistake prevented Detroit Tigers pitcher Armando Galarraga from having a perfect game.

By sharing this anecdote, Tracy continued the theme of the day, by reinforcing to the graduates that they have control over their own lives and it is up to them what they choose to do with it that matters the most.

Tracy then announced Kellyn Campbell as the Essayist, Adele Musicant as Salutatorian and Brendan Mooney as the Valedictorian of the Class of 2010.

Campbell talked about the community life that exists in Wilmington. "The town motto is 'Small Town, Big Family' and for the past four years, we have been part of a family as we learned from both our successes and our failures.

advising her classmates to, "live for today cause the future is going to happen."

Then, Mooney shared a humorous poem that he wrote for the occasion regarding his view of how the public education system was started and the things that would be allowed. Throughout his entire speech, Mooney had the crowd laughing at his wit and clever observations such as "We'll give them pizza every Friday." - "I don't see why not," and "every school will have a mascot, like the Wilmington...what's an original name?" - "Wildcats."

Field Hockey coach forced to resign after taking teaching position at Shawsheen Tech

Coach of the Year now a spectator

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

This past November, Jodi MacKenzie coached the Wilmington High School Field Hockey team to its best season since 1992. She was named the Cape Ann League Coach of the Year, and the Town Crier Coach of the Year after guiding the team to a 13-4-4 overall record, which included a trip to the second round of the Division 2 North sectional tournament. Seven months after that magical season, she has been forced to resign from the post by Superintendent of Schools Joanne Benton.

Several weeks ago MacKenzie informed WHS Principal Eric Tracy that she would be resigning as a special education teacher at WHS to take the same position at Shawsheen Voc Tech in Billerica. Three days after getting full support from Tracy on her decision, MacKenzie was sent an email from Benton asking her to resign as the head varsity field hockey coach.

"Jodi has decided to leave Wilmington High School to take a position at Shawsheen Tech, and we are reposting the field hockey position because we feel that it is best for the coaches to see the kids during school, and we feel that it's a great recruiting tool to have coaches in the school," said Benton. "We feel that there are other young teachers at the high school who are looking for coaching positions, and if they are qualified and meet the standards of (Athletic Director Ed) Harrison and Mr. Tracy, then we will move forward."

Benton added that she takes full responsibility for this action, and doesn't believe that a teacher who leaves the school system to teach somewhere else should be allowed to stay on as a head varsity athletic coach. She was asked about other coaches on the staff such as new hirings Audrey Cabral-Pini (softball) and Joe Maiella (boys basketball) who are not teachers in the system that were hired under her era, or other coaches such as Jay Keane (girls basketball) and Joe McMahon (girls hockey) who aren't teachers at all.

"I don't have a problem with the basketball coach not teaching here," she said. "We're not interested in firing those coaches who aren't teaching in the school. But Jodi decided to leave Wilmington for Shawsheen Tech."

MacKenzie said that she applied for the Shawsheen Tech position several months ago and wasn't even sure she was going to get it. After being interviewed a few times, she was given an offer to take the position. Before signing the contract, she went to Tracy who she said gave her full support of her decision and went on to sign the contract. She was then completely thrown off guard when she received the email from Benton.

"I took the position at Shawsheen Tech because I thought this would be a better opportunity financially for me and my family," she said. "I feel that I've been completely pushed away from something that I love. I understand that I'm choosing to teach in another district, but I feel that losing the field hockey job is unwarranted. It just seems like they are being untrue to the kids. This is just a very sad day and I hate to go out like this. People said this might happen, but I couldn't have imagined (it happening to me)."

MacKenzie has lived in Wilmington all of her life. She went through the Wilmington School System and graduated in 1998. She played three sports at WHS, and went on to play field hockey at Endicott College and graduated in 2002 with a Bachelor of Science in Psychology. In 2001, MacKenzie began her teaching profession in the Wilmington, first starting out as a substitute, before becoming an Educational Assistant, and then she was promoted as a full-time Special Education Teacher first starting out at the middle school, and was recently moved to the high school.

In 2004 she became the JV Field Hockey coach and has been on the athletic staff for the past seven years, including two years as the varsity field hockey coach compiling a record of 16-17-7. She also served as the assistant track coach from 2003 to 2006, before taking the same position at Shawsheen Tech and has served in that role since 2007. And over the past few years, she went on to earn her Master's Degree at Salem State College.

Before taking the head coaching position, the Field Hockey program had gone through five different coaches counting Jan Cassidy Wood, the Hall of Famer, who retired after the 1992 season. After having success over the next five seasons under Jan Urquhart and Maureen Noone, the program took a major step backwards in terms of wins and losses over the next decade, before MacKenzie got the program on its feet this past season with a second place finish in the Cape Ann League standings, as well as a first round state tournament win over Swampscott, before losing to Watertown in the second round.

When MacKenzie was named the Town Crier Coach of the Year in December, several of her players were asked about what it was like playing for the 29-year-old.

"You know a coach is great

MACKENZIE PG SP4W

Jodi MacKenzie, the Cape Ann League and Town Crier Coach of the Year in 2009, had doubled the win total in just two seasons of coaching the Field Hockey program than the program won in the previous five years combined, and despite that she was forced to resign because she took a teaching position at Shawsheen Tech. Past 15 months three prized coaches are gone, so who is next?

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

This one gets chalked up with the overused computer or text phrase, LOL - the good old Laugh Out Loud. Because once again, the school officials here in Wilmington just make us all laugh because that's what this town has become, a complete and ultimate joke.

What is going on with the Wilmington High School athletic coaches?

First Jim McCune, the Hall of Fame basketball coach resigned because he (and many others currently on the WHS staff) was the lowest paid coach in the league. No one fought to keep him around after 20 years of outstanding service. Then, long-time assistant coach Chip Bruce, was asked not to apply for his assistant positions with the soccer and hockey program because ... no one will share the reasons.

And now field hockey coach Jodi MacKenzie - the reigning Cape Ann League and Town Crier Coach of the Year - was asked to resign from her post all because she took a teaching position at Shawsheen Tech High School that would pay her more money than what she makes today as a Special Education Teacher at WHS.

In the past 15 months, the WHS athletic department has lost arguably one of the greatest coaches to ever walk through the gymnasium and one of the best the state's ever seen, has lost a two-sport assistant coach who is revered more by the children of this town than the latest winner of American Idol, and now has lost a young, outstanding female coach, who has not only been a fixture in turning the field hockey program completely around, but has been a tremendous role model to the young females of WHS. And for what reason?

Jodi MacKenzie left her teaching position at WHS to do what any other person in this country would have done - to take the same position at another school (or job) all the while making more money. Who could ever blame her? What does that have to do with coaching field hockey? It's apples and oranges, and completely preposterous that she is being let go for this reason.

Superintendent of Schools Joanne Benton said on Tuesday that this decision lies all on her shoulders. She

Nick doesn't Bout this pitching performance

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

Friday's first round game against Winchester in the MIAA Division 2 North Tournament at Scanlon Field did not start off the way Nick Boutoures would have liked. The senior right-hander for the Wilmington High baseball team hit a batter and walked another in the first inning and then threw consecutive wild pitches to score two runs in the second inning to put his team in a 2-0 hole.

But that was about as good as it would get for the Sachems against Boutoures, as some good advice from a teammate got him back on track and Winchester hardly stood a chance as he began mowing down batters, allowing only one run over the next four innings as his teammates put the game away in a 9-6 victory for the Wildcats.

Overall Boutoures pitched 6 2/3 innings, allowing eight hits, while striking out eight. He allowed only two hits from innings three through six, before tiring in the seventh and eventually giving way to Sean Hanley who picked up the save for the Wildcats.

He also had quite the day at the plate, helping his own cause with a pair of hits, two RBI and two runs scored.

And that good advice he received? It came from Michael Murphy who pulled his friend aside during that rough second inning.

"Murph came over and put some confidence in me," Boutoures said. "He just told me to calm down and be a leader out there. That really helped settle me down and I was able to do much better from there."

Boutoures rough road was not completely done, as in the fourth inning, Winchester scored a run on an error to pull within 4-3 at the time, and were threatening to add more with runners at first and third and only one out.

But Boutoures allowed no further damage, striking out one batter and getting a ground out to second from the other to end the inning and maintain the Wildcat lead.

"At that point I was just trying to keep them from getting any more runs," Boutoures said. "It helps to have strong defense behind you."

Boutoures' coach, Aldo Caira, was not surprised to see Boutoures turn his game around after his shaky start. It was Boutoures first ever start in a tournament game and he seemed to go from rookie to veteran pretty quickly.

"I think he was a little nervous at first, but he settled down nicely and pitched a good game," Caira said. "He eventually ran out of gas, but he pitched well. I am a firm believer in letting a guy try to finish a game where he has pitched the way he did. Of course, it is also nice to have Sean in the bullpen." Boutoures acknowledged that nerves may have played a role in his early inning struggles.

"I think it was just nerves more than anything," Boutoures said. "Also, I have not pitched in 12 days, but that is not really an excuse. I think it was mainly just nerves until I was able to settle down a little."

Boutoures needed very little time to settle down at the plate, ripping an RBI double in the third inning to give the Wildcats their first lead of the game at 3-2 before coming around to score himself and he later helped extend the lead in the sixth inning with an RBI single before once again coming around to score the Wildcats ninth run of the game.

"I have been in a slump lately, but I just tried to forget about that and focused on hitting," Boutoures said.

Masco sends Wildcats packing with second round defeat

By MIKE IPPOLITO
& JAMIE POTE

The Wilmington High baseball team got their post season off to a great start on Friday afternoon at Scanlon Field with a 9-6 win over Winchester in the first round of the MIAA Division 2 North Tournament, setting up their big quarterfinal matchup with top seeded Masconomet on Monday.

The eighth seeded Wildcats fell into a 2-0 second inning hole after a pair of wild pitches by pitcher Nick Boutoures scored two Winchester runs, but the senior right-hander settled down from there, scattering eight hits, while striking out eight and shutting down the ninth seeded Sachems until the seventh inning when he gave way to junior Sean Hanley who recorded the final out of the game to pick up the save seal the victory, to remain scoreless in 18 relief innings this season, including three wins and two saves.

The Wildcats offense, meanwhile chipped away at Winchester pitcher Alex Quzor and carried a 5-3 lead into the bottom of the sixth, at which point they broke the game open with four runs to take a 9-3 lead into the seventh before Winchester scratched back in their final at bat.

Winchester jumped on top of the Wildcats in the second inning. A pair of singles and a sacrifice bunt put runners at second and third with one out. After a pop up to second, consecutive wild pitches by Boutoures put the Sachems up 2-0. It was just about the last mistake Boutoures would make.

"He was a little nervous at first, but he settled down nicely and pitched a good game," Wilmington coach Aldo Caira said of Boutoures.

The Wildcats wasted little time in responding in their half of the second inning. Hanley led off with a single, followed by another single by Brett Meuse. One batter later, Evan Butters ripped a double to score Hanley and move Meuse to third. Meuse would score moments later on a sacrifice fly to right by Pizzore.

The Wildcats tacked on two more runs in the bottom of the third when Michael Murphy bunted his way on with a perfect bunt down the third base line and scored moments later on an RBI double by Boutoures, one of two RBI on the day for Boutoures. He would score moments later on a single by Meuse, making the score 4-2.

Winchester scored on an error in the fourth inning to pull within 4-3, but Boutoures escaped a first and third one out situation with a strikeout and a grounder to second to keep the Wildcats on top.

Boutoures continued to mow down Winchester batters, retiring eight of nine at one point heading into the seventh inning and the Wildcats added one more run when Cole Pfeffer ripped a double to score Hanley in the fifth to make it 5-3, and that is where the score remained when the Wildcats came to bat in the bottom of the sixth.

"The bats came alive for us," Caira said. "We had a couple of nice innings where we had three hits in a row and then in the last inning we were able to manufacture some runs. That's how we have to play."

The Wildcats, as Caira said, definitely did manufacture their runs in the sixth, but they were aided greatly by some Winchester miscues as they tacked on four runs to their lead with the benefit of only one hit.

Pizzore got things started with a walk, and when Fennelly attempted to bunt him over, he ended up at third and Fennelly was on first on a throwing error by the catcher. Fennelly stole second and Pizzore scored on a bunt attempt by Scifo that resulted in another Winchester error and Fennelly came around to score on an RBI single by Boutoures to make the score 7-3.

Scifo stole second and went to third on a passed ball before scoring on a Hanley sacrifice fly to center and Boutoures capped the scoring, coming in on an error by the Winchester third baseman on a ball hit by Meuse, making the score 9-3 as Winchester prepared for their final rips.

After shutting down the Sachems for much of the day, Boutoures finally tired in the seventh, loading the bases with two outs before Winchester's Connor Steckel cleared them to make the score 9-6, bringing on Hanley who sealed the deal and sent the Wildcats on to Masco, where they had lost 1-0 earlier in the year, giving their undefeated CAL rivals their toughest game of the year.

On Monday afternoon, Wilmington was defeated by Masconomet, 3-0, ending the Wildcats season with a record of 12-10 while Masco improved to 21-0. Wilmington managed five singles in the game but had three runners thrown out on the bases, two on pickoff plays from the catcher to first base, and the other on a sacrifice bunt as a runner tried to take an extra base and was thrown out at third.

In the top of the seventh, Wilmington put runners at first and second with no outs after Vinny Scifo and Michael Murphy singled, but the next three batters were retired in order to end the game and the team's season.

"We couldn't get the bats going and everytime we put a guy on base, something crazy happened," said Caira. "It just wasn't our day today but it was nice to give them a little bit of a scare in that seventh inning. We had as many hits as they did, so it's not like they overpowered us."

Masco scored one run in the second and added two more in the fourth for the game's only three runs. Wilmington senior Michael Murphy tossed the complete game and had a bizarre statistical line. The top five batters for Masco were a combined 0-for-12 but reached base seven times on a walk and six batters getting hit by a pitch. But the bottom four guys in the order were a combined 6-for-10 with three doubles and one a walk, but none were hit by a pitch.

"Their bottom of the order killed us," said Caira. "Murphy handled their top of the order, although he hit most of them, but that's the kind of pitcher he is. You don't see many high school pitchers who pitch inside and sometimes kids don't know how to handle it and they either pop it up or hit a weak groundball. Yeah he hits his share of guys, but for the most part he stayed within his game plan and did a nice job."

Only Scifo reached second base and he did it twice, and other than the top of the seventh, Wilmington never really tested Masco.

"We played them tough and I have to give our boys credit," said Caira. "They aren't intimidated by them and I think it showed that in all of the other sports they played against them. But you know they got a great team over there, so what are you going to do? They have all of the pieces of the puzzle over there. But our kids weren't intimidated and we played them tough."

All in all it was kind of a strange season for the Wildcats, who battled inconsistent play, injuries and lost other key players for different reasons as well.

"It was an up and down season," said Caira. "I thought there were three or four games in there that I thought we should have won and I think in those games we just didn't come ready to play. But all in all, the kids did a good job. Nick (Boutoures) really emerged as a number one starter and did a nice job with the bat. Vinny (Scifo) came into his own and Murphy we survived his little vacation. I don't know if winning a few more games (during the regular season) would have got us past this point, but it would have made our record look better."

"When you look at the whole picture and you looked several years ago, you would have thought that this team would have been like that 2008 team when we were able to get a piece of the league crown then, and I really thought that we could have done that this year. But they are going to be tough to replace - most of the pitchers are gone ... so we are looking at a young team next year and probably that may be for the better because if we take it on the chin next year, the year after we'll have a stronger team going into the Middlesex League."

Wildcats end season with 17 wins

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

After overcoming a four-run deficit in a very bizarre first round game, the Wilmington High School Girls Softball team had to comeback again in another twisted contest during Tuesday night's Division 2 Quarterfinal game against North Reading. But the Hornets broke a 5-5 tie with a controversial run in the top of the seventh, and after the Wildcats had a runner at second with one out in the home half, Emily Crannell was stranded and the game and season ended with a 6-5 defeat.

With the 7-4 opening round win over Swampscott and the 6-5 loss to North Reading, Wilmington ends the season with an overall record of 17-5.

After 12 illegal pitches were called on Wilmington starter Chelsie Babcock in the first game, none were called against her until one in the sixth inning and another in the seventh inning, and that one set up a bases loaded situation and eventually North Reading pushed in the winning run.

"The illegal pitches they called were both on 3-2 pitches, and both times it was strike three and to me that's just ridiculous," said head coach Audrey Cabral Pini. "I'm disgusted with the illegal pitch calls. But that was an awesome comeback by our girls, not only in this game but against Swampscott as well. I thought the umpires missed a few calls tonight - they missed Brittney's (McLaughlin) tag on a runner at home, two girls missed tagging third base on a hit.

"But the bottom line is we had a tremendous season and these girls worked really hard. I can't be disappointed. It's just disheartening for the seniors because they worked so hard, but I'll take 17-5."

Wilmington scored single runs in the first and third innings to take a 2-0 lead. Brittney McLaughlin singled in Babcock, who singled to start the bottom of the first off. Then in the third, McLaughlin walked, went to sent on a bunt and third on a wild pitch and scored on a sacrifice fly by Liz Crannell.

But then North Reading scored five runs in the top of the fourth behind two triples, two singles and two walks to take a 5-2 lead. But the Wildcats came back to score three runs in the bottom of the fifth behind a RBI single by Emily Crannell, and she came around on a double steal with Bree Parow, who then came around to tie the game up on a wild pitch.

That led to North Reading scoring the game winning run in the seventh on a single, three walks and a big illegal pitch call.

Wilmington's Emily Crannell singled to lead off the bottom of the seventh, and was moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by her older sister Liz, but was stranded there after Parow sent a rocket line drive to third base and Jackie Zarembo fled to left field after fouling off a number of tough pitches. Liz Crannell and Zarembo are just two of a handful of seniors who played in their final game.

"The seniors were awesome," said Cabral-Pini. "I'm losing seven seniors, and six starters. Lauren Zarembo got good minutes so she'll fill in at second base, Jen Stewart will play first, Emily and Taylor will be back at short-stop and third, Chelsea Westerberg will catch and Tori Lord will be our pitcher. Our infield will be pretty much set, so we'll need to find some outfielders. But the good thing is these kids are experienced with a successful season under their belts so we're hoping we can continue to keep that tradition going."

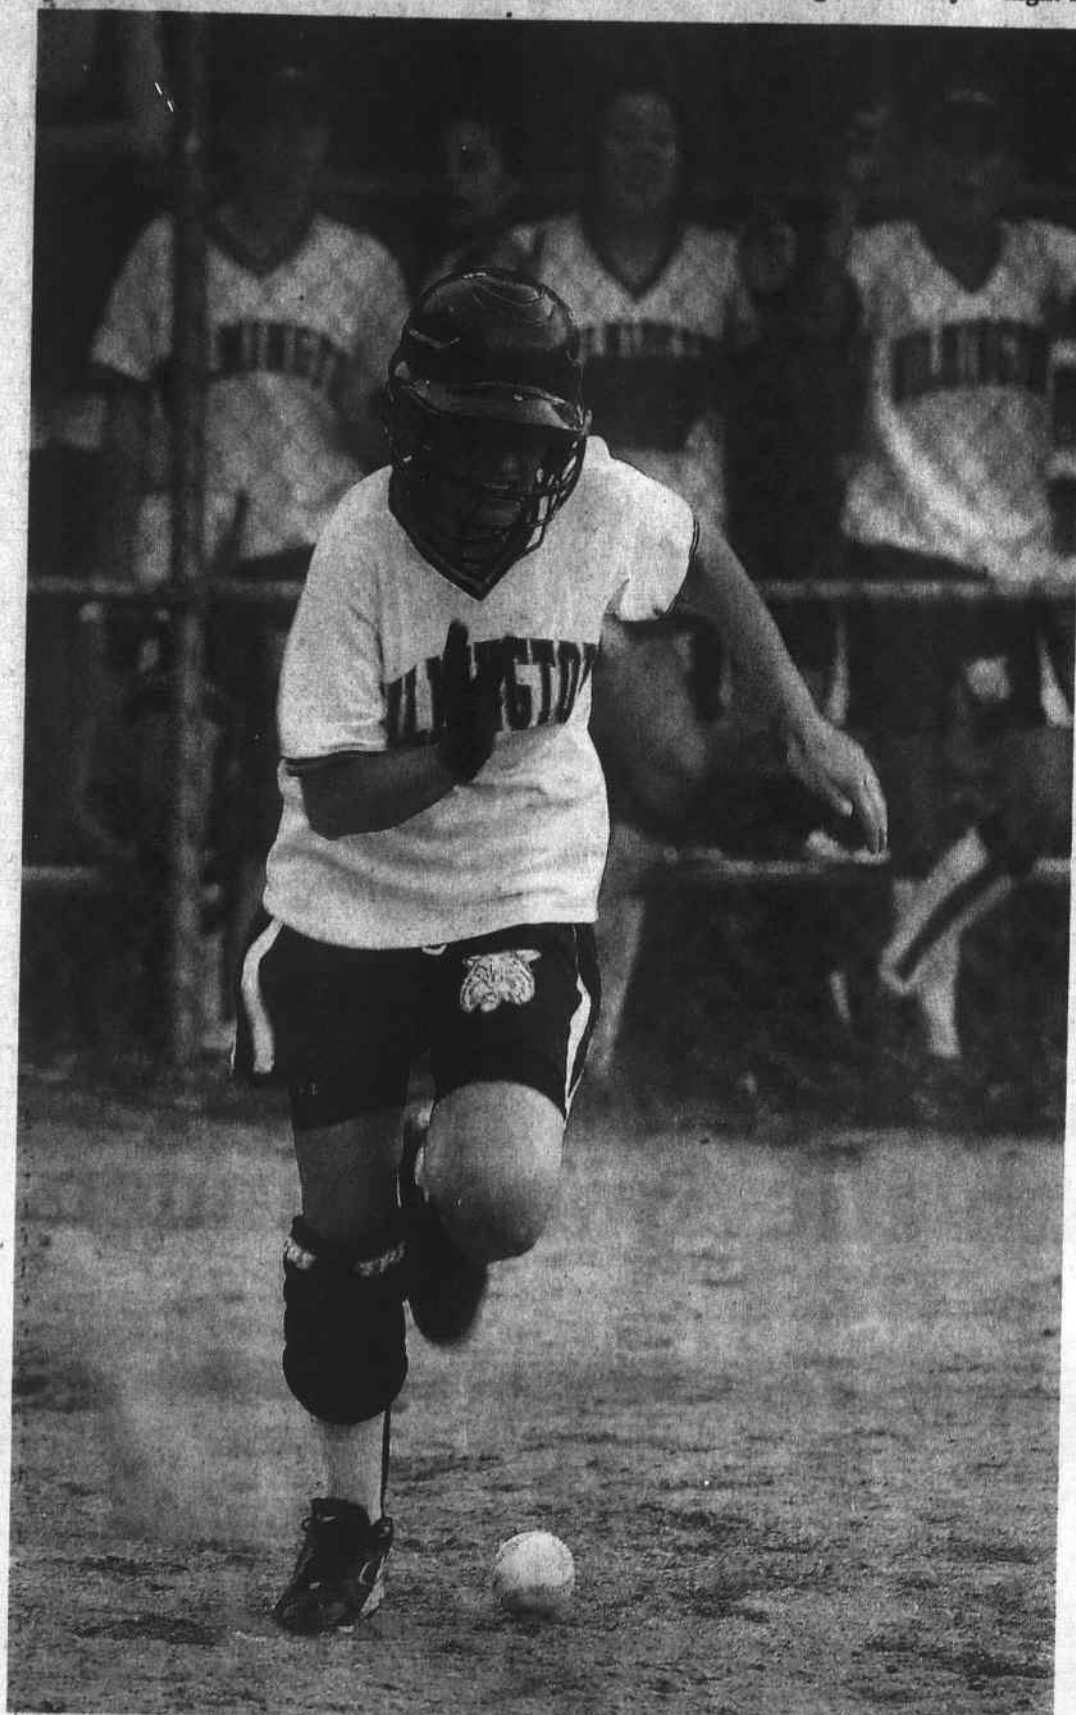

Last Thursday Wilmington defeated Swampscott, 7-4. The Big Blue scored three runs in the first, mostly all on illegal pitch calls, and then lead 4-1 going to the bottom of the fourth before Wilmington scored three runs on singles by Liz Crannell and Babcock, two bunt singles by Jackie and Lauren Zarembo, a hits-batsmen, a walk and an illegal pitch. Then the Wildcats added to that scoring three more runs in the bottom of the fifth to take the victory.

when every single one of her athletes would do anything to make her proud," said senior Nicole Luz, the team's goalie. "Jodi is a coach that I only had for one season but she gave my team and myself a season that we will never forget. And that is what makes a great coach, which is what Jodi is and what she will continue to be. With her coaching the field hockey team, the program will continue to strive and improve."

Added all-conference player Liz Crannell, "Being new to field hockey it was hard to be introduced to a new coach. At first Jodi was a little intimidating and I was a little nervous for the tryouts. But after the first tryout I came to the realization that she was not only going to be a great coach but a great role model. Jodi is the type of coach every athlete hopes to play for. She knows how to work a team to their best ability while creating great memories. Jodi is a person who not only pushed her athletes to strive for greatness, but she believed in her athletes even when others didn't."

After the 2007 season, WHS Athletic Director Ed Harrison thought it was necessary to make a change with the head varsity coaching position. He asked that former head coach Carol Mutchler not to reapply (coaches have to reapply every year) because he said "the program just needed a change", as the team had eight combined wins in five years. Harrison brought on MacKenzie, who was promoted from the JV team, and she won 16 games in two years, double the amount of wins in the previous five seasons.

Harrison was asked on Tuesday morning about this situation with MacKenzie being forced to resign and offered "no comment." However, back in December, he was asked about the job she did behind the bench from the 13-win 2009 season.

"Jodi is extremely hard working and organized," said Harrison. "For a game that's hard to follow, she makes it fun for her team and the fans. She has brought the program back and I think she has done an outstanding job."

On Monday night, a handful of the parents of the Field Hockey program gathered together with plans of approaching the members of the School Committee during Wednesday night's meeting with hopes that the forced resignation will be overturned or at least hoping their opinions can be heard.

"No matter where I teach, I always thought that I would be a part of the Wilmington athletic department," said MacKenzie. "I've been a Wildcat my whole life and inevitably the rest of my life I will always bleed blue."

MacKenzie added that she gathered with the members of her team last week and broke the news to them and is very thankful of all of the support she has received from her players, and from Harrison.

"Being a part of Wildcat sports has been an incredible experience for me," said MacKenzie. "Both when I was in high school, and while teaching (and coaching). I'm saddened by the whole thing but it is what it is. Ed Harrison has always been good to me, and this time it is out of his control. I have had such support from the community and will continue to give back as a life long resident."

Three prized coaches are gone, so who is next?

doesn't agree that MacKenzie should keep her field hockey position after taking a teaching position at another school - that serves Wilmington kids mind you - and that's the only reason for the dismissal. Benton claims that there are other young teachers inside the Halls of WHS who deserve a shot, and who do not jump ship, and who will be a better recruiter for the sport because he or she is in the building. She went on to say that MacKenzie has done "an outstanding job" and was also asked if there were any disciplinary blemishes during MacKenzie's teaching and coaching career and the answer was no.

So what's the problem? "Jodi decided to leave Wilmington and take a job with Shawsheen Tech," she said.

And???? Two years ago, Jack O'Brien was a teacher and girls' soccer coach at Tewksbury Memorial High School. He decided to leave his teaching post and take the same position at Northeast Regional Tech in Wakefield, yet he wasn't asked to leave his soccer job by school administrators. This past November, he did however, resign from the post because he said the commute was too much for him, and it did interfere with practice and game times. That's not the case with MacKenzie - her new school is ten minutes down the road.

In 19 years covering TMHS sports, the only times coaches were let go were due to serious allegations, and not because coaches wanted to make a better lifestyle for themselves and their families by switching their full-time careers. Tewksbury doesn't toss good people - who work extremely hard helping young children - aside all because of some silly power trip. They get it. They understand the simple concepts of treating people the right way.

The suggestion to all of the coaches here in Wilmington is to watch your backs so something like this doesn't happen to you. It's a shame that we continue to lose great people and great coaches for no reason. Jodi MacKenzie - just like Jim McCune, Chip Bruce and all of the coaches in the athletic department - has done nothing but make the young girls of the field hockey team better athletes and better people. She preaches life lessons every day to her players about doing the right thing. She is doing the right thing for herself and for her family - this is a Laugh Out Loud moment that the school officials here can't see or are willing to accept that.

Under 16 Softball team scores 18 runs

U16 Blue 18, U16 Red 8

Last week in Wilmington Senior League Softball action, the U16 Blue team used excellent pitching and some timely hitting to defeat the U16 Red team, 18-8 in a game at Glen Road. Pitchers Jillian Williams, Casey McDonald, and Nicki Lunt combined to hold the Red team to only two hits. Williams allowed no walks in her time on the mound and retired the final six batters she faced. McDonald allowed no hits and struck out four, including putting the side down in order in the 3rd inning. Lunt came on for the final two innings and struck out six. At one point early in the game Blue pitchers retired 11 Red batters in a row.

The Blue offense was led by Robin Hollenbeck who whacked a three-run home-run in the fifth inning to add to her first inning single. She also scored three runs. Lauren McKenna had two hits, including a RBI-double in the fourth. Jackie Kennedy also doubled in a run in that four-run fourth inning.

Megan Priem drove in three runs and had a single. The other Blue hits belonged to Lunt and Ashleigh Howland. Jessica Kasperian continued her streak of getting on base and scored two runs. Lunt and Nicole Potner had each had an RBI. Hollenbeck, Blue's lead-off hitter, has now reached base safely 19 times in 21 plate appearances and is currently the team's leading hitter.

Red hits came from a lead off double by Kennedy Harper and a sixth inning single by Kim Woods. Harper also scored three times. Lauren Mulligan reached base in both her at bats and scored each time. Defensively Red played well, with pitcher Rachel Mills taking control, hustling after a dropping infield pop by Howland in the fifth and shortstop Allie Gemellaro stabbing a line shot by Kennedy in the sixth. Megan Howland pitched well for Red, allowing only two hits and striking out three while she was on the mound.

Pan Mass Challenge Bike Ride

Kids help raise $14,000 for the Jimmy Fund

By BECCA QUIGLEY
Sports Correspondent

For the fifth consecutive year, Wilmington's Pan-Mass Challenge Kids Ride received energy and enthusiasm from kids, parents and volunteers within the community. Although heavy rain was brought to the ride for the second year in a row, success was also brought in the form of $14,000 for cancer treatment and research at the Dana Farber Institute through the Jimmy Fund. Over the years, the Wilmington ride alone has raised over $70,000.

"Seeing such young children raise money is phenomenal, and it gives me great satisfaction," said Sue Hendee who has coordinated the event along with Carolyn Priem since its beginning. "Since I also work with kids as a physical education teacher, I want to show them how to stay healthy and I feel it is an obligation to teach them about philanthropy and charity and about helping others."

"I also wanted to do this because I know Wilmington is a generous town and would support an event like this."

Wilmington is currently one of 35 venues for the 2010 PMC Kids Ride. Hendee, who is also riding in her 20th Pan-Mass Challenge this year, first began the Wilmington ride in 2005 and has been long-time supporter of the organization.

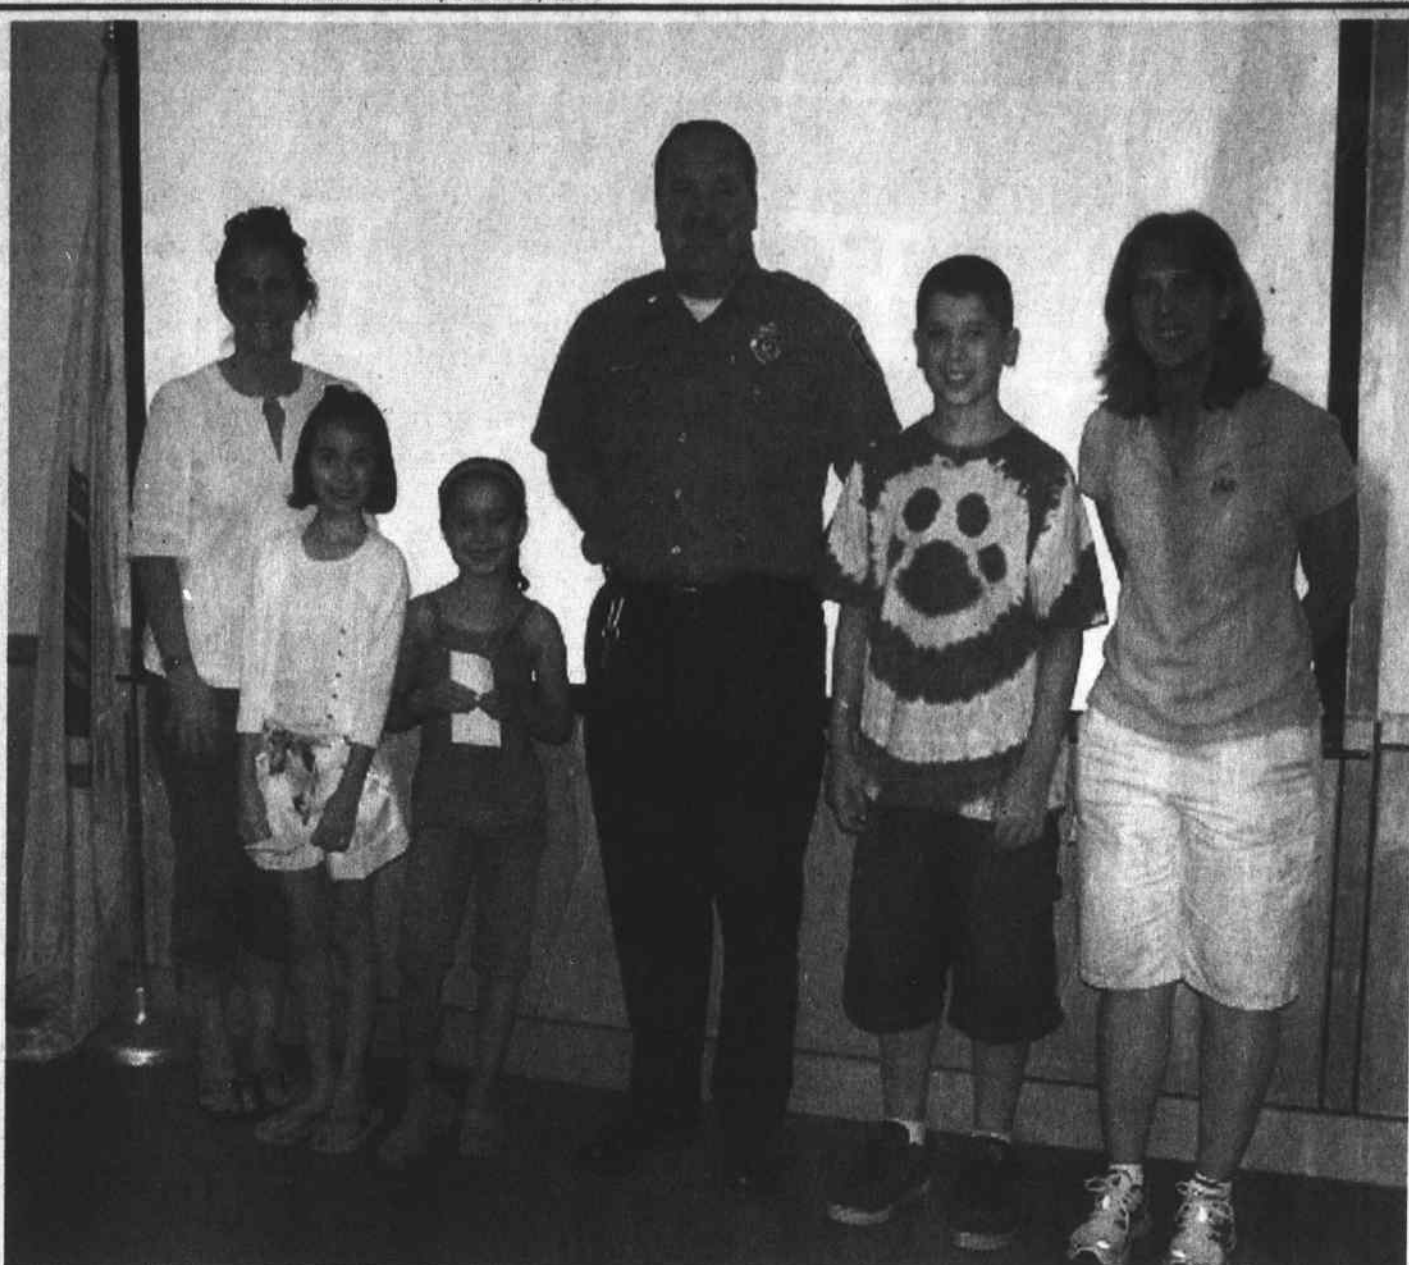

"The Pan-Mass organization is great because of the high percentage of its money that it directly donates to Dana Farber," she said.

This past Sunday, kids ranging from kindergarten to sixth grade geared up for the rain and rode a one-mile loop beginning at the Boutwell School, heading down Carter Lane and continuing through the grounds of the Wilmington Middle School and West Elementary School. Three various age categories took turns riding the course in certain time frames from 9:00 am to 11:45 am, and could ride the loop for as many times as they wanted until the end of their interval.

A "Tykes on Trikes" ride was even organized on Boutwell's tennis courts for children younger than kindergarten. Additional festivities included music, refreshments; and, with the help of the Andover girls' field hockey team, face-painting was done as well. As in previous years, the Wilmington Kiwanis Club generously donated prizes and hotdogs to participants.

Each year, prizes are given out to the top fundraisers; but this year, Hendee also incorporated the recognition of PMC "Heavy Hitters": kids who raised $250 or more. About a dozen children were acknowledged as Heavy Hitters with special prizes for their achievement. Perhaps the greatest display of fundraising, however came from Sophia (first grade) and Ben Maynard (fourth grade), who together raised over $4,700 for the cause.

The top fundraisers from the 2009 PMC Kids-Wilmington Bike Ride were awarded gift cards donated by the Wilmington Kiwanis Club, just before the start of this year's event which was held on Sunday, June 6. Pictured from left includes: Carolyn Priem (PMC Kids-Wilmington Coordinator), Allison Torres (Grade 4), Sophia Maynard (Grade 1), Officer Brian Moon, Kyle Collins (Grade 5), and Sue Hendee (PMC Kids-Wilmington Ride Coordinator). Missing from the picture is Madison Knibbs (Grade 5). (courtesy photo).

Despite the unfavorable weather, turnout of participants was great, and about 40 more children were registered for this year than last year: a goal Hendee was hoping to reach. This year's ride received an especially large and lively group of kindergartners and first graders; and ironically enough, the downpour fell hardest during their time to ride.

Even more surprising for Sue was the turnout of volunteers, which notably came from the Wilmington Police Department, residents of the town, other adult PMC riders who had heard about the event, the schools' custodial staff, and the Wilmington High School girls' soccer team.

"It is important we continue doing [the ride] because it is well-run," said Hendee. "The kids have fun every year, we have different activities, and we continue to get so much support from the community and the school system. I love seeing the kids look forward to it every year, and the parents are wonderful. Several families in Wilmington are affected by cancer, and this gives the kids the incentive to help out their loved ones."

Hendee is planning on holding the event again next year, but would like to bring in other surrounding towns so that it may grow in participants. With some additional advertising, she is hopeful in receiving interest from Tewksbury or Andover.

As she and Priem continue to coordinate the ride year after year, Hendee cannot be more grateful for its success and the unyielding support she receives from the community.

"I want to thank anyone who came out; and thanks to the volunteers who were incredibly helpful, the kids who are excited to come out and ride every year, and the parents who are also very helpful," said Hendee. "It really makes this event worthwhile."

Brother-and-sister help raise $4,700

Ben and Sophia Maynard could not be considered average kids. Though they have child hobbies like anyone else, theirs is slightly different: in their free time, they like to raise $4,700 for cancer treatment and research at the Dana Farber Institute through Wilmington's Pan-Mass Challenge Kids Ride.

"It feels good giving something back to other kids," said Ben.

"Really good!" added Sophia.

Sophia and Ben live in Wilmington with their parents Greg and Maria, who have lived in the town for 11 years. Sophia, who is in first grade, also busies herself with gymnastics and dance, while fourth-grader Ben enjoys various sports like baseball and basketball. Even with fairly busy schedules, the kids will always find time to help out a good cause.

"I think [the ride] is awesome," said Maria. "A lot of people may just sit back even if they have the time, resources, and abilities to do something like this too, but it really means a lot to see kids participating and fundraising."

"I always remind them that above everything, they need to value their family and their health; and when a person does not have good health, I think they know how important it is to help them out."

The family first began participating in the Kids Ride last year, when the kids brought home a take-home flyer from school given out by their gym teacher and the event's coordinator, Sue Hendee. Last year, they were able to raise $1,600 for the Jimmy Fund.

"We both love biking, it seemed like fun, and it helped to raise money," said Ben.

They kids also were eager to help out because their family has a fairly large history of cancer.

"Unfortunately we know too many people who are afflicted with cancer," said Maria. "You think about all these people now going through different treatments, and it means a lot to see people doing the ride."

To remember all of their family members, Ben and Sophia rode bikes with banners on their handlebars that listed all the loved ones they knew who had lost to or are battling cancer. Several aunts and uncles as well as their grandfather were on that long list.

Several of the Maynard's family members are also long-time supporters of the Pan-Mass Challenge. In fact, Greg's father, sister, aunt, and friend all participate in the annual, 40-mile adult ride. This year, the kids got a jumpstart on their fundraising by beginning even before they registered for the ride. The majority of the donations were received by Ben and Sophia's online page, which is linked to the PMC Kids website. Through the online site, they received donations from families in places as far as Minnesota and Texas.

Their farthest donation, however, came from their grandparents in Singapore, where their grandfather is currently recuperating from cancer. When he found out about about his grandchildren's accomplishment, he felt very proud of them.

Maria says that the PMC website along with other social networks such as Facebook made it very easy for Ben and Sophia to raise money. They also did well fundraising because they notified several family members and friends at school.

"I keep telling these kids that if [Greg and I] were to sign up for any PMC ride or fundraiser, we wouldn't do half as well as them," said Maria.

Another reason why the kids were so successful in the fundraising aspect was because they received "matches" from Maria's company, which means whatever the kids ended up raising; Bank of America would match that amount 100 percent.

"All they wanted to do was raise one more dollar this year," said Greg. "And I think they kind of did that."

Fundraising aside, the kids also worked hard during Sunday's ride. While peddling through heavy rain, Ben managed to complete 23 miles within one hour. His goal is to be able to bike 40 miles after fifth grade, and eventually participate in the adult Pan-Mass Challenge ride.

Sophia, on the other hand, faced some difficulty when she blew out her tire after three and a half miles. After riding ten miles in last year's ride, she knew she was capable of riding more.

However, being responsible for almost a third of Wilmington's fundraising efforts this year is an accomplishment Ben and Sophia can never forget.

"Kids could be interested in clothes and toys; but these kids really want to do [this ride]; they love it, and every year the ride their hearts out," said Maria.

Next year, the kids will stick to their goal of raising at least a dollar more, but they are most hopeful to raise $5,000 for the Pan-Mass organization.

Patrie finishes off athletic career at LCA

Wilmington resident and Lexington Christian Academy senior, Timothy Patrie will be graduating this Saturday, putting an end to a terrific high school athletic career. Patrie recently received the Most Valuable Player Award for the LCA Lions Varsity Boys Lacrosse Team. Along with the team honor, Patrie was an Eastern Independent League 1st team selection and elected to the New England Prep School Men's Lacrosse All-Star Team.

As a defender and captain for the Lions, Patrie recovered 85 ground balls, had five goals and two assists; he finished his career as a defender with 145 ground balls (3rd most in school history), 14 goals, and 14 assists. Patrie set a LCA single game record collecting 19 ground balls in an April 21st game versus Gann Academy.

"Tim is an outstanding athlete. His athletic ability coupled with his field presence allowed for him to mark any attacking player," said LCA Varsity Lacrosse Coach Ryan Patrie (former Wilmington resident and Timothy's older brother). "His leadership and intent to help develop the talent of younger players made Tim just as outstanding a captain as he was a player for us."

In addition to his success in lacrosse, Patrie excelled on the soccer field for LCA. The two-time Eastern Independent League All-Star led LCA to two league titles in his junior and senior seasons, while leading the team to the New England Prep School tournament semifinals this past fall. In the fall, he led the team in scoring 12 goals and handing out 14 assists. Patrie was also selected to the 2009 Massachusetts Prep School All-State Team for Boys soccer.

In his time at LCA, Patrie enjoyed big game moments. During the 2009 fall soccer season Patrie helped LCA clinch the league title by scoring a bicycle kick goal in the final minute of play to propel LCA to a 1-0 victory over league rival Pingree. In a lacrosse game this spring, the Lions were tied 8-8 with the Landmark School with 47 seconds remaining in overtime when Patrie dodged to the goal and placed a shot on the goalie's off-stick side, securing an exciting 9-8 win.

Looking back at his career Patrie exclaims, "Those two moments were really special to me. Those were great games and great teams to be a part of and I will always remember them. My teammates were the greatest and enabled me to experience some awesome moments."

As he looks forward to the future, still recognizing and appreciating his time at LCA, Patrie says "I am grateful for my experience at LCA. The great school community and brotherhood I experienced on the athletic teams are things I will remember forever and have helped to make me whom I am today." Timothy will be attending Liberty University in the fall and has the opportunity to play soccer or lacrosse for the Flames.

Ungvarsky medals at Mass AM qualifier

Wilmington resident Zack Ungvarsky shot a 1-under par during the Mass AM qualifying round held at the Bradford Country Club. (courtesy photo).

Wilmington resident Zack Ungvarsky stole the show on the North Shore as he not only fired a medalist score of 1-under par 69 but captured that honor by a dominating four strokes at the Mass AM qualified held at the Bradford Country Club.

Although the round looked near perfect on paper, Ungvarsky used his cool head and trusty caddie to help him out of an early hole which saw him 3-over par through five holes.

"I had a double bogey there (on the 5th hole) which was frustrating," said Ungvarsky, who quickly righted the ship by making three straight birdies on the 6th, 7th and 8th holes. "I had a lapse of mental focus on the 5th tee shot which led to that double bogey. My dad, who was my caddy, and I just tried to keep a cool head and got to the par 3. We talked about it, the club selection and I got back into the zone and I stuck it to four feet."

His trusty caddie - his father Gene - has been a constant companion on the links recently. The family connection has worked wonders for the Ungvarsky family which includes Zack's parents Gene and Julie, older brothers Jordan and Aaron and younger sister Aubrey. Oh yes, it's also notable to mention that he is nephew of longtime PGA Tour player Joey Sindelar.

"It makes the round enjoyable," said Ungvarsky about having his family on his bag. "You are never more than two steps away from someone you can have a great conversation with."

That type of down-to-earth and humble attitude is what propelled Ungvarsky to an impressive collegiate career at the University of Hartford which came to an end when he graduated on May 16. As a fitting exclamation point to his four-year career he was named to the 2010 All-New England Division I Golf Association second team. His senior campaign featured many highlights including two top-10 finishes in his first four tournaments of the year.

After sinking that four-foot birdie putt on the 6th hole, Ungvarsky went on to drain a 10-foot, uphill birdie putt on the 292-yard, par 4 7th hole and then made a comfortable two-putt birdie on the 498-yard, par 5 8th hole.

"My dad actually gave me a great read on the putt on six and that is when it started," said Ungvarsky, who earlier this season finished as first alternate for the MGA Open Championship. "From then on it got easy. The swing started feeling right and everything was going right after that."

While his focus is on the next big challenge this summer - the Massachusetts Amateur Championship scheduled for July 12-16 at Myopia Hunt Club - Ungvarsky is keeping an open but honest eye on what his future might hold.

"My plans are to play in as many amateur events as I can this summer," said Ungvarsky. "My goal is to make it to the U.S. Amateur once before I go pro. If I can make it to that then I know that I have the game to make it at the next level."

Belmont sends Rams Lacrosse team packing

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech boys lacrosse team saw their season come to an end last Wednesday afternoon in the preliminary round of the MIAA Division 2 East Tournament with a 13-4 loss to Belmont at Shawsheen Tech.

The loss ended the 14th seeded Rams season at 16-3 overall, while 19th seeded Belmont improved to 12-5 and advanced to the first round where they took on third seeded Medfield and lost by a score of 10-8.

Shawsheen had defeated Belmont 10-9 in the first round of last year's tournament, but things went the visitors way this year. The Rams actually played much better than the finals score would indicate, trailing just 4-2 at the end of one quarter and 6-3 at halftime, but Belmont took control in the second half and ended the Rams season prematurely.

Shawsheen coach Chuck Baker felt the better team won, but also felt that his team probably could have played a little better.

"We played OK, but it was not our best game," Baker said. "We didn't try to slow the game down at all. Time of possessions was our focus and we didn't do that well enough. We were trying to run and gun, and we were not having success with that. We competed for a half though."

Belmont certainly had plenty of motivation to beat the Rams after being eliminated by them last year, but Baker felt that motivation was not the only factor that allowed Belmont to finish on top.

"They were motivated, but I also feel that they were the better team on the field," Baker said. "They had an All American midfielder who was great and their faceoff guy won 17 of 18 faceoffs. He was amazing. They showed how good they are by only losing to Medfield 10-8."

While the season ended a little earlier than Baker or the Rams would have liked, it can not diminish what a great season the team once again put together. Along with finishing 16-3 overall, the Rams also won their fourth straight league title, capturing the CAC crown after winning the past three Mass Technical Lacrosse League titles.

The Rams finished undefeated in the league for the second year in a row, and also showed they can compete with higher competition as well with their efforts against their non-league rivals.

"The season was another good one," Baker said. "It's always nice to win league titles. We got some good non-league wins and competed at a high level in the two non-league losses (8-5 to Marblehead and 7-6 to Westwood)."

As great as the season was, better days may still lie ahead for this Rams team who will return a very solid corps of young player next year including junior goalie Frankie Mearles of Wilmington, and junior attacks Ryan Woolaver of Tewksbury and Erik Dellano of Wilmington.

The Rams do however, lose two very important players to graduation as they must say goodbye to senior attacks Ryan Hunt of Wilmington as well as the school's and CAC's all time leading scorer, Cory Foss.

Foss wrapped up his career by winning the CAC MVP this year as finished the season with 56 goals and 27 assists for 83 points and 328 career points including 84 his freshman year, 84 more as a sophomore and 77 last season. This year he broke the record of 313 points previously held by former attack Shawn Donovan of Tewksbury.

"They are two great kids and two solid athletes," Baker said. "Both I am and the team are going to miss the two of them. Foss is off to Curry College and Hunt is going into the Coast Guard." Foss and Hunt were just two of the Rams six CAC League All-Stars. Foss, as mentioned above was named the CAC MVP, and junior defender Dylan Leone of Tewksbury was named League Defensive MCP. Other league all-stars were junior defender Jesse Dillon, Woolaver and Foss.

Junior defender Stephen Nicolson was awarded the CAC Sportsmanship Award.

Rams Baseball falls to Amesbury

The Shawsheen Tech baseball team was eliminated in the first round of the MIAA Division 3 North Tournament on Saturday afternoon by Amesbury in a 9-1 loss at Amesbury.

With the loss, the ninth seeded Rams finished their season with an overall record of 11-8 while eighth seeded Amesbury improved to 14-7 and moved on to the quarterfinals where they defeated Saugus on Monday.

The Rams got into a big hole when Amesbury had a six run second inning to make the score 8-0 and were unable to bounce back against a team that defeated them three times on the season. Shawsheen had seven hits on the day, including two from Corey Suprey, while DH Paul DePlacido drove in Sean Hannon with the lone run in the third, and Chris Rogers pitched great in relief, allowing only one hit over four innings, striking out four batters.

Hockey team to hold golf tourney

The Shawsheen Tech hockey program will be holding their annual Shawsheen Hockey Golf Classic on Monday, July 19th at Billerica Country Club. Proceeds from the event will benefit the Shawsheen Hockey Alumni Association.

The event will kick off with an 8:00 a.m shotgun start with registration beginning the morning of the 19th at 7:00 a.m. Cost of the event is $120 per person and includes 18 holes of golf including a cart, along with a sleeve of golf balls, a complimentary gift and a barbecue after the tournament. There will also be tournament hole stakes and raffles.

To pre-register for the tournament, mail your check to Shawsheen hockey coach Chuck Baker at Shawsheen Tech, 100 Cook Street, Billerica, MA 01821. Checks should be made payable to Shawsheen Hockey Alumni Association. For more information, contact Chuck Baker at 978-604-0085. The registration deadline is July 1st.

Lady Rams crush first round foe

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

BILLERICA - The Shawsheen Tech softball team could not have gotten off to a better start in their quest for a sectional title on Saturday afternoon at home against Minutemen Tech of Lexington.

Not only did the second seeded Lady Rams down their 18th seeded CAC rivals by a score of 6-0 in the first round of the MIAA Division 3 North Tournament with a fine display of offense, they also got a no-hitter from senior pitcher Sara Elwell of Tewksbury as they improved to 19-4 on the season and moved on to the quarterfinal round to take on 10th seeded Austin Prep in a game played on Tuesday at Shawsheen.

Shawsheen scored once in both the second and third innings and then broke the game open with four runs in the fifth inning with the key blow coming on a three run homer from senior second baseman Jenna Zechner.

Elwell, meanwhile was brilliant throughout the game, picking up her first no-hitter of the season and her fifth shutout on the campaign. Elwell struck out seven and walked only one, while overcoming three errors behind her to beat the Mustangs for the second time this season, after downing them 3-0 during the regular season.

"Sara was outstanding today," Shawsheen coach Maureen Buckley said. "She was in complete control the entire game. She did not get rattled when things were not going her way, and that is a huge help to the team."

It was a fine all around performance for the Lady Rams who showed they can score runs in a variety of ways. Leading 1-0 in the third inning they doubled their lead when Brooke Mallahan of Tewksbury singled and then stole second before coming around to score on an RBI double from freshman catcher Stephanie Champoux of Tewksbury.

In the fifth they used a great combination of small ball and long ball to put the game away, with junior Ally Trayah of Tewksbury starting things off with a walk and then moving to second on a single to right by Meredith Bonugli. Trayah scored moments later on a slap infield single up the middle by Mallahan to make the score 3-0.

That, apparently, was enough of the small ball, as the next batter, Zechner, cleared the bases with a three run homer to make the score 6-0 and with the way Elwell was pitching, for all intents and purposes closed out the game. It was Zechner's ninth home run of the season.

"It's good to see us scoring runs both ways," Buckley said. "Jenna has come through for us a lot this season, but you can't depend on that so it is great that we have many kids who can come through with base hits for us."

And Buckley knows that if her team is going to continue to advance in the tournament, they will need to be able to put up runs in a variety of ways.

"That's what the tournament is all about," Buckley said. "If you can put the ball in play and put pressure on the other team's defense, you are going to be more successful. The girls did a very good job with pitch selection today. They have learned that they give themselves a better shot at success if they are patient."

Champoux had two hits on the day for the Lady Rams, while Mallahan also had a pair of hits to go along with her two runs scored and RBI.

Buckley was pleased with her team's hitting, but in many ways she was even more impressed with her team defense, despite the three errors. Two of the errors occurred in the first two innings and the Lady Rams were flawless after that until a seventh inning error. Buckley liked the way her team bounced back from their early game struggles.

"We played well defensively," Buckley said. "I just told them that they had a couple of tough balls early in the game, but they came back to make some big outs with nice plays. That's what we have to do. Nobody is perfect, but it is a matter of what you do next after you make a mistake."

Buckley was also pleased with the way her team was able to put a 5-1 loss to Monty Tech on Wednesday in the State Vocational Championship behind them and focus on the task at hand with their first round state tournament game.

"For a young team like we are to bounce back the way we did is very impressive," Buckley said.

A smile, a softball and Elwell pitches in

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

At one point in the Shawsheen Tech softball team's 6-0 first round victory in the MIAA Division 3 North Tournament, a Minuteman batter fouled the ball off to the first base side and into the team's bench where one of her teammates retrieved it.

Shawsheen senior pitcher Sara Elwell took a few steps toward the bench caught the ball from the Minuteman player, smiled and said "thank you." She then went back between the pitcher's circle, got rid of the smile and fired strike three to the Minuteman batter and continued on her way to pitching a no-hitter to kick off Shawsheen's post season.

The no-hitter was just the latest in what has been a season of outstanding performances for the senior from Tewksbury. The no hitter was her first of the season, and it added nicely to her five shutouts and 17-4 overall record as she helped lead the Lady Rams to the Commonwealth Athletic Conference title.

And as for the smile and thank you, followed by the cold blooded strikeout, neither came as any surprise to Shawsheen coach Maureen Buckley.

"That's just the way Sara is," Buckley laughed. "We've been trying to find the nasty side of her but there just isn't one. She has a lot of fun out there, but when it's time to pitch she is serious about that."

Whatever technique Elwell has chosen this year certainly seems to have worked well for her and she has enjoyed going through this spectacular senior season with her teammates.

"It's a lot of fun just pitching and knowing my team is behind me and can back me up. That really takes the stress off of me," Elwell said. "I trust them 100%. I know they can make plays so if I make a mistake I know they will make a play behind me."

And she has every right to enjoy her senior year after three years of waiting in the wings for her chance to be the Lady Rams number one starter. When Elwell was a freshman, Shawsheen had an outstanding pitcher in Kelli Jo Deardorff who was just a sophomore, so she had to wait her turn to take over the number one role.

It is not that she did not contribute the previous three years, including going 7-1 last season, but this year has been different, and she has earned her opportunity.

"She has worked hard for four years," Buckley said. "It is hard for people to understand what it was like for her to come in as a freshman behind a sophomore who was already established. But she kept at it, and when she was not pitching she still worked hard, whether it was at hitting or just doing the book for us."

Elwell accepted her role gracefully, putting team goals ahead of her personal goals.

"Kelli was a very good pitcher and I knew I had to wait because that was better for the team," Elwell said. "She knew more than me at the time and gave us the best chance to win."

Elwell has shown she does not mind sharing the spotlight, even within her own family. Both of her sisters, Jenn who recorded over 1,000 strikeouts while pitching for Shawsheen, and Kristine who was an outstanding player for the Lady Rams, have shown her what it is like to compete at a high level, and Jenn continues to do that as an assistant coach with the Lady Rams.

"She helps me with everything," Elwell said. "If I am having a problem she lets me know and I think because she is my sister she knows me very well."

And Buckley says that the three sisters could not have supported each other any better during the course of their careers. While some may think there would be a sibling rivalry among three such talented athletes, Buckley says there is nothing of the sort.

"There really isn't anything like that," Buckley said. "Each of them has come through and they have done well. They have each had very different styles and they have been very supportive of each other. There is not competition, they just have great unity."

And that unity was on full display in Saturday's game with Jenn on the bench as a coach and Kristine and their mom sitting behind the backstop watching Jenn mow down opposing batters. The family support means a great deal to Sara.

"I love that," Elwell said. "My family makes it to every game they can and cheer me on the entire time. That is very important to me. It is a lot of fun having them here."

And Sara Elwell has also loved having Buckley on the sidelines for her as well. Part of her ritual every inning before she takes the circle is to high five Buckley and the other coaches as she heads to the field. It doesn't matter the score, or the tension of the game, Elwell never misses an inning.

"Since freshman year I have done that," Elwell recalled. "Even if I run out and forget I will run back and do it. It's become a fun tradition."

And simply playing for Buckley has become a tradition that Elwell has loved in her time at Shawsheen.

"She knows me so that makes it easy," Elwell said. "She's very laid back and knows how to bring the team together. If there are any problems, which this year there really has not been she is great at keeping the team together and getting us to play our best."

Buckley, for her part, has loved the way Elwell has carried herself not just this season, but throughout her career.

"I like to see a kid like Sara who has worked really hard and may not have had the opportunity, to come through like she has when given the opportunity," Buckley said. "She has a great attitude and she does not look for credit. But we would not have done as well as we have without her."

But then fall to Austin Prep Cougars in quarterfinal round

Just a few days after their dominant win over Minuteman, the Shawsheen Tech softball team saw their season come to an unhappy ending as they suffered a 10-2 loss to Austin Prep in the quarterfinals of the MIAA Division 3 North Tournament.

The second seeded Lady Rams ran into a buzz saw of sorts in 10th seeded Austin Prep who had beaten seventh seeded Mount St. Joseph 16-0 in order to advance to the quarterfinals.

It was a day where nothing went right for Shawsheen and virtually everything went right for Austin Prep, and the results bore that out, as the Lady Rams finished their season at 19-5 overall, while Austin Prep improved to 15-7 and advanced to the semifinals to take on Greater Lowell on Wednesday.

"Pretty much everything went wrong for us," Shawsheen coach Maureen Buckley said. "They hit the ball hard all day long. We actually hit the ball hard at times too, but we hit it right at people."

The Lady Rams actually had their chances early on. After Austin Prep jumped out to a quick 3-0 lead in the top of the first, Shawsheen fought back with a run of their own in the bottom of the frame, but could not add more despite having runners on in both the first and second innings.

"We had their pitcher rattled a little with a couple of hits, but we hit into double plays and that really hurt us," Buckley said. "They were the type where there was really nothing you could do. We hit line drives right at people and our runners were unable to get back to the bag."

Austin Prep scored those three first inning runs and then added two more in the third, one in the fourth, one in the sixth and three more in the seventh to account for their runs.

"They were a good team. They hit the ball very well and executed well and that happens sometimes," Buckley said. "They outplayed us today and they deserved to win."

While the loss ended a Shawsheen season that Buckley and her players were hoping would last much longer, the team is still able to look back on a tremendous season that included a second straight CAC title, a trip to the State Vocational championship game, and a 19-5 overall record that included a perfect 12-0 mark within the CAC.

And this was all done with a very young team, with several freshmen and sophomores emerging as stars, including freshman catcher Stephanie Champoux freshman shortstop Arianna Medeiros, both of Tewksbury.

Junior Ally Trayah of Tewksbury had another fine year for the Lady Rams, as did juniors Brooke Mallahan of Tewksbury and Kristina Lees of Wilmington along with sophomore Franny Pesantes among others.

"I was incredibly happy with all they accomplished," Buckley said. "With such a young team I never expected to go 19-5, but we had different people all year step up for us and come up with big plays. I am very proud of everything they did and how they went about it. Both the school and I can be very proud of them."

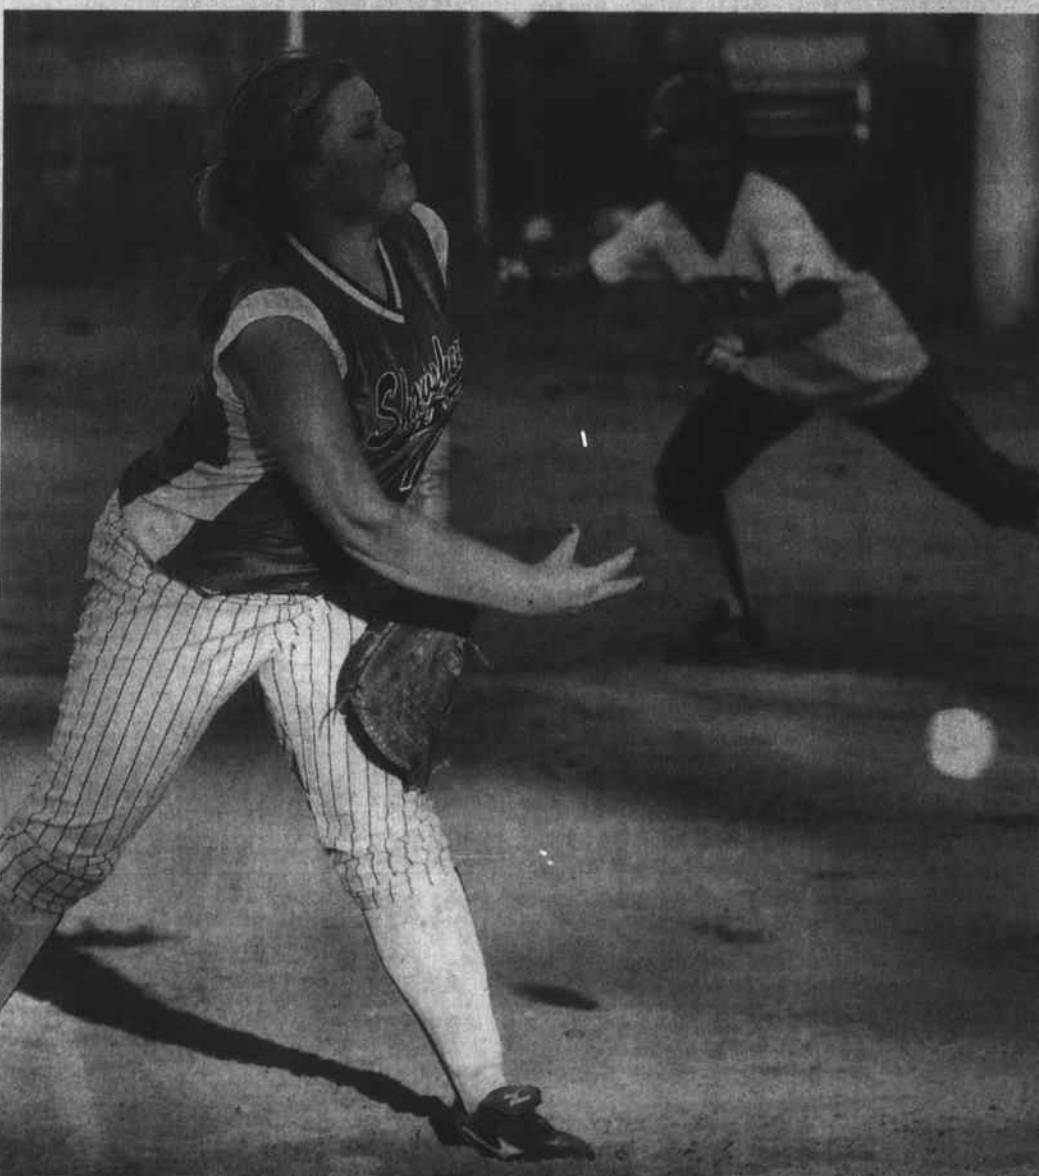

"Our two seniors did an excellent job of pulling the team together and they deserve a lot of credit for that."

The seniors Buckley referred to will be sorely missed next year as the Lady Rams will lose senior pitcher Sara Elwell of Tewksbury along with senior second baseman Jenna Zechner to graduation. Elwell went 17-5 this season and had five shutouts as well as no-hitter in the first round win over Minuteman, while Zechner came up with numerous big hits for Shawsheen and belted a remarkable nine home runs including a three run bomb against Minuteman.

"They will be very hard to replace, in fact I am not sure we can replace them," Buckley said. "We will expect our young kids to step up and I think they will, but both Sara and Jenna will be sorely missed both for their talent and their leadership."

Tewksbury resident Sara Elwell was named the CAC Player of the Year after guiding the Rams Softball team to another magical season. (photo by JoeBrownphotos.com).

World Cup?

Legit or just a TV gimmick?

IPPOLITO: Hey Mike, the World Cup of Soccer kicks off this week in South Africa which means that for the next four weeks we will be deluged with soccer highlights and hear countless testimonials from breathless sportscasters about how we are witnessing the greatest sporting event in the world. I don't know about you, but I am just not buying it. Don't get me wrong, it's a great event, lots of drama, and I will catch some of it. But greatest sporting event? I don't think so. Give me the Super Bowl, World Series or even March Madness over the World Cup.

GIANNATTASIO: Mike, the World Cup is hands down the greatest sporting event ever. Unlike the Super Bowl, World Series and March Madness, 32 different countries from all over the globe will be participating. Everyone across the world will be watching, and it will not be like other sports that are only watched in certain countries. Soccer is the world's biggest sport, so it will be tremendous watching the talent from all the teams. Get ready for an entire month of action as the best sporting event is going to be awesome to watch.

IPPOLITO: Yeah, I am pretty excited to see how well Cameroon, Slovenia, Slovakia and all those other traditional soccer powerhouses perform! Sorry, I just can't get that excited about the whole thing. Now, when we get to the semi-finals and finals and some of the greatest teams in the world are competing, wake me up then. I have a question for you. How can an event be the greatest in the world, when the world's greatest super power, the USA is basically irrelevant to the event?

GIANNATTASIO: How can u state that the USA has been irrelevant to the event? Have you not been watching ESPN and reading the non-stop coverage of the USA team over recent weeks? Additionally, the great part about watching the World Cup is watching countries like Cameroon, Slovenia, and Slovakia play because the World Cup can unify nations and give countries a sense of national pride. The World Cup can bring people together. For some of these countries, the World Cup is not just a sporting event but it is a way of life.

IPPOLITO: Yes, I have seen the relentless coverage by ESPN of the U.S. team. Of course, that is mainly because they are trying to get their money's worth for all the coin they shelled out to cover an event the majority of Americans don't care about. Now, as I said, I will be interested once some of the better teams start to play each other. And what event would be complete without making a prediction about who will win? For me, I see Italy winning it all once again. With a cakewalk through Group F against teams like New Zealand, Paraguay and once again, Slovakia, they should barely break a sweat before facing the big boys. From there Italian heroes like Fabio Quagliarella and goalkeeper Gianluigi Buffon will carry the Azure to another World Cup win.

GIANNATTASIO: Mike, don't be such a bandwagon fan. The World Cup is going to be fun to watch from the beginning, not just when the better teams start to play each other. Also, don't say Americans don't care about the World Cup. I can guarantee that the ratings are going to be sky-rocketed for the World Cup and it's going to generate lots of revenue. Millions of people in the USA alone will be watching. As for who is going to win, I'm going with Brazil or Argentina. These teams have been dominant in the past, and I'm expecting they will be victorious again.

But the Royals came right back with two runs in the bottom of the third on hits by Marissa Doherty, Dick, Trant and Nicole Petherbridge. Petherbridge came in and pitched two innings of relief, and with great defense from Niamh Cote and Dick with outs from third and short respectively. The Royals increased their lead in the bottom of the 5th with RBI's from Dick, Alyssa Mercurio, and Megan Donahue. The Angels came back with two in the bottom of the sixth, and Trant came back in to help seal the win, with a strike out and a great defensive play by Christina Noyes.

Wicked Cheesy Dodgers 6, Steven Demetriou DMD Red Sox 4

In their win against the Red Sox, the Dodgers were led by the outstanding pitching performances of Emily Lisiecki, (4 strikeouts) and Brooke Lamothe (5 strikeouts), holding the Red Sox at bay after

The offensive attack of Kayla Giaimo and Abigail Naugler, both playing a major role in the rally leading to the deciding runs, were a key to the victory against an extremely good Red Sox pitching staff. Defensively Naugler played heads-up in right field, routinely backing up first base, preventing the advancement of runners.

J&B Butcher Cubs 9, Wicked Cheesy Dodgers 7

Offensive standouts for the Dodgers included Brigh Cote and Julia Giaimo, both, who reached base in the losing effort both by hitting and walking, showing careful eyes at the plate against a formidable Cub pitching staff. Defensively, Brooke Lamothe, who also pitched 3 effective innings, made outstanding, softball smart plays, forcing multiple unassisted put-outs at home plate to stem the Cubs offense, giving the Dodgers an opportunity at a win.

Pitcher Briana Walker led the J&B Butcher Cubs to a 9-7 win over the Dodgers. Walker pitched very well in the first two innings, striking out five batters. Samantha Lalonde, Kerry Shea, and Haley Mignon also contributed on the mound. At bat, all pitchers had two hits each. Lauren VanGorder, Alyssa Piccolo, Lily Robinson, and Caitlin Panessiti had a hit each. In the field, Walker and Panessiti made a good play, pitcher to catcher, for an out. VanGorder made a solo play at first base.

Steven Demetriou DMD Red Sox 16, Wicked Cheesy Dodgers 9

The Dodgers lost to a tough Red Sox team, notwithstanding an excellent debut pitching performance from Stefani Cunningham. Offensively the Dodgers did a good job against a very capable Red Sox pitching staff, getting good production hitting the ball, and were led by Riley Cote, and Brigh Cote, both hitting the ball hard and reaching base three times.

J&B Butcher Cubs 12, Steven Demetriou DMD Red Sox 11

Redmen Youth Lacrosse wrap-up

Boys U15 -1 vs. Andover

The Tewksbury Boys U15-1 Team won their final game of the regular season against Andover 2 by a score of 11-2. After a quick goal by Tewksbury early in the first quarter the game was delayed due to lightning. After the delay the team scored another nine straight unanswered goals showing strong offensive control and solid defense.

Seven individual players contributed goals for Tewksbury - John Aylward (3), Sean Brady (1), Kevin Dick (1), Tim Donovan (1), Brandon Hibner (2), Eric Velozo (1) and PJ Wild (2). Connor Cadigan and Kevin Dick did an outstanding job in dominating face-offs during the game. Ryan Letourneau had several fine shots on net that were well defended by Andover. Michael Brawley was flawless in goal until letting two goals go by in the final few minutes in man down situations. Penalties were Tewksbury's only Achilles heel during the game.

The team finished the regular season with a league record of 5-2 and 10-2 including non-league games. Playoffs begin this week with a final U15 Patriot League Playoff Cup Tournament on Sunday, June 13 on the Livingston fields. Fifteen teams will be competing for the Championship.

Boys U-13 vs. N. Andover

The Tewksbury Boys U-13 faced an excellent N. Andover team on June 2 and found themselves on the losing end of a 12-1 blowout. Missing seven players, the team played hard with Mike Lirakis and Rory Foley sharing duties in net. The score could have been much worse if not for the many terrific stops and clears both of them made. North Andover held Tewksbury's offense to a bare minimum, however regular defenseman Luc Surette took a shift at Attack and scored a wrap around goal from behind the net, breaking the shut out. Making their coaches proud the Tewksbury boys did not give up.

Highlights included excellent down the field passing plays by Blake Schumaker to Kyle Spiller to Jonathan Verrill, and Matty McLaughlin to Ryan Flynn to Tanner Scott, which created more scoring chances. Nick Diminico, Stephen Tyner, and Brandon Fernandes ran up and down the field working hard to keep N. Andover off their game. Defensively,

Boys U-13 vs. Arlington

In between the thunder, lightning, and rain showers the Tewksbury Boys U-13 squared off against Arlington losing their regular season game 12-3. Mike Lirakis and Rory Foley split the game in net, both working hard for a half each. Tewksbury's defensemen Ryan Flynn, Kyle Spiller, Nick Muise, TJ Contaloni and Matty McLaughlin checked off several Arlington advances, supporting the efforts of Lirakis and Foley. Also on defense both Blake Schumaker and Luc Surette were able to start some good offensive plays out of their zone by getting the ball down field to middies Nick Diminico, Jimmy Catyb, Brandon Fernandes and Stephen Tyner. This helped set up scoring by Jonathan Verrill (2 goals) and Grant Callanan (1 goal).

Attackmen Robert Paltrineri, Tanner Scott, and Timmy Sullivan kept the Arlington defense busy, by executing good passing to teammates Josh Duarte, Billy Catyb and Jack MacMullin, for additional offensive opportunities.

The team will be finishing up their season this week as the Playoffs kick off mid week and this upcoming weekend.

CREATIVE Reading's Andrea Durham and Boston's Museum of Science THINKING

By PAUL FEELY

Very few fields change as frequently, and dramatically, as the world of science. New discoveries can cause the textbooks to be written on a daily basis.

For employees at a science museum, the challenge isn't just to stay ahead of the curve - they are charged with ways to present that information in new and engaging exhibits.

That's where Reading resident Andrea Durham, the Director of Exhibit Development and Conservation at Boston's Museum of Science, comes in.

Since her first day on the job in 1996, she's been responsible for envisioning, creating, and enhancing 18 exhibitions, encompassing everything from a prehistoric flying reptile hovering above the popular T. rex, to the Apollo Command Module which was renovated for the 40th anniversary of the Moon landing.

Durham became interested in "trying innovative things that are good for the environment" when she was a student in RIT's cooperative program at IBM in 1982, helping develop a "green" dual-purpose package for photocopier toner and its removal. In 1983, she headed for the Polaroid Corporation in Cambridge, where she oversaw business and professional film product packaging design for 50 products. While at Arthur D. Little, she developed a manufacturing plan for a Sweden-based pharmaceutical firm.

Durham earned a B.S. as a packaging engineer from Rochester Institute of Technology (RIT) in 1983 and an M.B.A. from Babson College in 1989. "Believe it or not, making museum exhibits is package engineering," she says. "It involves many disciplines, graphical and 3-D design, creativity, problem-solving, organization, communication, teamwork, and manufacturing."

Part of Durham's job involves coming up with a method to pay for new exhibits, as well as designing the exhibits themselves.

"Since museums frequently create things for the first time, installing a new exhibit can easily cost $3 million," she says. "So we're always writing grants."

One project Durham worked on recently was the renovation of New England Habitats exhibit, which cost $50,000 but transformed a series of aging but popular dioramas featuring bear mounts and other creatures into "our greenest" exhibit. Labels printed on wood, not petroleum-based surfaces, and special lighting now offer "windows into the natural world."

"The Museum of Science was actually built in eight sections over the last 60 years or so, and this is the first building that was built," said Durham. "So this building was literally built around these dioramas, which are enormous. They go really high up. They are classic museum exhibits, and they have a lot of history and people love them. But there were some really, really outdated labels here. We have 130,000 square feet of exhibits, so they don't get updated yearly. So this had been waiting its turn. We recently did a renovation that updates it and makes it a bit more interesting, and we're already noticing that a lot more people are already reading about the exhibits."

"This is also where we really broke new ground in terms of making the museum exhibits accessible to all visitors. We try to make every exhibit as interesting and accessible to all visitors as possible. The museum has really broken new ground in this area. It's fun to bring areas to life, and in this case it's new life, because it's the same dioramas."

Durham and her staff utilize a lot of input from visitors to the museum when deciding what exhibits to spend their money on.

"We do a lot of visitor research, and sometimes it's by gut feel, that this area needs some freshening up, but other times it's based on visitor research - asking them what areas they feel could use READING'S ANDREA DURHAM, THE MUSEUM OF SCIENCE'S DIRECTOR OF EXHIBIT DEVELOPMENT AND CONSERVATION, stands with the Science in the Park exhibit - one that she and her exhibit team renovated - behind her. some updating of new features, what they would like to see done. In the last year we've really tried to apply more data to the decisions. We want to know how best to use our limited funds, so we try to base it on data."

When she saw a position on the Web as "manager, exhibit projects" at the Museum of Science, she thought, "Wow! This has my name all over it." The day after she mailed her cover letter, she got a call from the Museum's HR department. Durham has managed the creation of a multi-media, interactive exhibit on how humans communicate and an exhibit about coastal science and ecology. Then, she led Museum to S-4

"Get Him to the Greek" hilarious

"GET HIM TO THE GREEK"
GRADE: ***

Okay, it's only early June, but 'Get Him to the Greek' is easily the funniest movie of the year thus far.

The movie reunites Jonah Hill and Russell Brand with 'Forgetting Sarah Marshall' director Nicholas Stoller in the story of a record company intern with two days to drag an uncooperative rock legend to Hollywood for a comeback concert. The comedy is the latest film from producer Judd Apatow ('The 40-Year-Old Virgin', 'Knocked Up', 'Funny People').

Aaron Greenberg (Hill) gets things done. The ambitious 23-year-old has exaggerated his way into a dream job just in time for a career-making assignment. His mission: Fly to London and escort a rock god to L.A.'s Greek Theatre for the first-stop on a $100-million tour. His warning: Turn your back on him at your own peril. British rocker Aldous Snow (Brand, reprising his role in 'Forgetting Sarah Marshall') is both a brilliant musician and walking poster man for sex addiction.

Weary of yes men and piles of money, the former front man is searching for the meaning of life, with a few parties along the way. When he learns his true love is in California, Aldous makes it his quest to win her back before embarking on world domination once again.

As the countdown to the concert begins, one intern must navigate a minefield of London drug smuggles, New York City brawls and Vegas lap dances to deliver Snow to the Greek safe and sound.

Get Him to the Greek is laugh-out-loud hilarious, and follows the now familiar but thoroughly enjoyable Apatow film formula for success of shockingly crude vulgarity and equally shocking sentimentality.

The entire cast is a delight, and the use of real celebs and news personalities (the film packs the first 10 minutes with more cameos than a Celtics/Lakers game at the Staples Center) is a great diversion. Brand is very funny once again as Snow, but the film's surprise show stealer is Sean Combs aka P. Diddy, who absolutely runs away with every scene he's in, playing an exaggerated version of himself.

"SEX AND THE CITY 2"
GRADE: *

Okay girls - the party's over. Time to consider staying in on weekends.

Sex And The City 2 reunites the cast of the hit TV series once again, but why?

According to a studio press release, "The fun, the fashion, the friendship: 'Sex and the City 2' brings it all back and more as Carrie (Sarah Jessica Parker), Samantha (Kim Cattrall), Charlotte (Kristin Davis) and Miranda (Cynthia Nixon) take another bite out of The Big Apple--and beyond--carrying on with their busy lives and loves in a sequel that truly sparkles."

Not quite. There's glitz. There's glamor. There's just no reason to revisit these characters again.

The plotline focuses on the age-old question that all soon-to-be-married couples wonder: What happens after you say "I do?"

As a way to get away from the little surprises life has doled out to them, the ladies embark on a glamorous, sun-drenched adventure that whisks the women away from New York to one of the most luxurious, exotic and vivid places on earth (the United Arab Emirates), where the party never ends and there's something mysterious around every corner. It's an escape that comes exactly at the right moment for the four friends, who are finding themselves in - and fighting against - the traditional roles of marriage, motherhood and more.

The plot is super-thin, and the film itself, at 146 minutes, is way too long. Fans of the friends might get excited about the return of Carrie's old flame Aidan, but there isn't much else going on here.

Sex And The City 2 is a parade of exotic set pieces and high-fashion outfits, loosely stitched together to form some semblance of a plot.

Fans of the series would be far better off reliving the gals' glory days with a few past seasons on DVDs than attending this reunion.

"SHREK FOREVER AFTER"
GRADE: **

The main characters of this fairy tale that has charmed both adults and children is now in its fourth installment, and with any luck it will be the final chapter - before any more of the original's magic is lost.

All the familiar faces are back for this one, and the best thing about this latest offering is the look of the film, not necessarily the story.

Few moviegoers are unfamiliar with the story of Shrek, the huge green ogre who lives in the land of Far, Far Away. Many moviegoers are likely also familiar with Frank Capra's classic "It's a Wonderful Life" - a plotline that the new Shrek draws heavily from.

After challenging an evil dragon, rescuing a beautiful princess and saving your in-laws' kingdom, what's an ogre to do? Well, if you're Shrek, you suddenly wind up a domesticated family man. Instead of scaring villagers away like he used to, a reluctant Shrek now agrees to autograph pitch forks. What's happened to our hero?

Longing for the days when he felt like a "real ogre," Shrek is duped into signing a pact with the smooth-talking dealmaker, Rumpelstiltskin. Shrek suddenly finds himself in a twisted, alternate version of Far Far Away, where ogres are hunted, Rumpelstiltskin is king and Shrek and Fiona have never met. Lynnfield sisters managers "Kids Gear for Baseball" event

The Red Sox will once again be teaming up with "Kids Gear for Baseball," asking fans to donate new and used baseball and softball equipment to area youth organizations on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 11-13 at Fenway Park. Every fan who donates equipment will have the opportunity to win autographed memorabilia and other valuable prizes.

Fans attending the Friday and Saturday night games as well as the game on Sunday against Philadelphia are invited to drop off new and used equipment outside all Fenway Park gates. The equipment will support the efforts of "Kids Gear for Baseball," a non-profit organization that distributes equipment to children in need - giving everyone the equipment they need to play the game.

Recipients of equipment include organizations such as Boys and Girls Clubs of Lower Merrimack Valley, Worcester and Lawrence, Special Olympics, and Cross Roads for Kids.

"Thanks to the support of the Red Sox, 'Kids Gear' donated equipment to more than 30 youth organizations, shelters and missions over the last several years reaching out to thousands of kids" said Kaitlyn Chisholm, and we look forward to providing even more kids with the equipment they need to play ball this season."

"Kids Gear for Baseball" was founded in 2002 and is now being managed by two Lynnfield sisters: Kaitlyn Chisholm, a junior at Lynnfield High School and Kelsey Chisholm, a varsity softball player at Middlebury College. The program is run by student volunteers who collect used baseball and softball equipment from leagues, teams and individuals.

Extra Innings of Middleton, MA has also helped in collecting slightly used equipment this year. The donated equipment is then sorted, inventoried and distributed to youth organizations in need.

For more information on Kids Gear for Baseball, send an email to kidsgearforbaseball@yahoo.com or call 781-334-3464.

The animation is even better than what we've seen in the series three previous installments, and the 3D feature adds an interesting aspect, but the eye candy is just a distraction to keep your mind off the story.

Still, this is far from the original in creativity and tone. It's not as clever, and while it will generate a few laughs, the sharp wit just isn't what it used to be.

About the Towns

by Phyllis Nissen

PRIORITIES, PLANS, PERCEPTIONS, AND THE BOTTOM LINE

WINCHESTER: TOWN CENTRAL

With Town Meeting over and its budget set, the Planning Board held a discussion about its priorities for the coming fiscal year," notes the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The Town Center initiative, which received funding from Town Meeting, is one already in progress. An economic and marketing study of the town center was done, the Planning Board and Board of Selectmen jointly hosted community conversations, and a new parking study got underway last year.

"The Board discussed next steps as developing a vision and mapping the area to show assets, neighborhood identities, zones, and appropriate uses and development. It is intending to devote time to this initiative at its June 17 meeting.

"Lance Grenzeback commented that after the board has looked at downtown neighborhoods and gotten a sense of what works and why, the board can look at a proposal such as recently came in for 68 Elwood Ave. within the context of a neighborhood vision. He suggested that neighborhood be one of the first they look at.

"Also underway for the downtown is a parking study. An analysis of parking availability and usage has been done and presented to the public. The next report is expected on July 8.

"Connected with the downtown is the MBTA's repair and improvement of the train station. Town Planner Betsy Ware previously reported to the board having conversations with Town Manager Mel Kleckner about integrating the train station project and any related parking with the downtown revitalization program.

"At its latest meeting, Mary McKenna reported having written on the board's behalf to Rep. Jason Lewis about the idea of a local committee to collaborate with the MBTA on a vision for a more attractive station and viaduct. McKenna reported hearing from Lewis that he is already moving on the idea.

"Another priority is the Zoning Bylaw. Questions have emerged about changes to the bylaw having crept in during the recodification process. The board would like to address these questions with other boards and staff.

"Another document the board has been working on is the Subdivision Rules and Regulations. This is reportedly nearing completion but needs further legal and engineering review before being presented to the community and before being adopted.

"Pursuing the reclassification of the planner position with the Personnel Board is another priority, so much so that the board voted to request a joint meeting with the Personnel Board. The board failed to get a majority vote at Town Meeting for a raise in salary and is concerned that Winchester's position is not competitive with those in other communities.

"On a second level of priority, projects to be commenced later, probably in the fall, include the Master Plan Phase II and North Main Street. Town Meeting voted a $40,000 appropriation for the Master Plan, which the board is hoping to supplement with a $20,000 state grant and could supplement with about $8,000 carried forward from phase 1.

"The main focus is to be transportation. Other chapters will be devoted to historical and natural resources, open space, and infrastructure...."

TEWKSBURY: THINKING FRIENDS

"The Friends of the Tewksbury Patriotic Activities Committee was formed in 2006 to promote and organize community funding and participation for patriotic events such as the Memorial Day parade, Veterans Day service, and Independence Day celebrations," notes the Tewksbury "Town Crier."

"If you are interested in joining the Friends Committee or otherwise getting involved, please contact Jerry Selissen at 978-500-1662."

After all, July 4 is just around the corner.

STONEHAM/WOBURN: WHICH KRAFT?

"Local residents and several Aldermen ... applauded Kraft Foods for reducing the severity of a foul odor that clouds over the area surrounding the Hill Court plant in East Woburn just off Route 93," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"During a Kraft Foods Ad Hoc Committee meeting ... an independent consultant retained by the corporation concluded that the company has made strides in addressing the foul odor, which in recent years has plagued residents in East Woburn, south Stoneham, and even as far away as Reading.

"According to Roy Desrochers, of GEI Consultants, recent tests have indicated that the food manufacturer has made strides in eliminating sources of the odor that are caused by flavoring and ingredients.

"Kraft is also adding equipment and developing new deodorizers to address smells that originate in the waste or byproduct basins at the plant, as well as within the so-called gelatin building, Desrochers claimed.

"The real focus is the last one," said the GEI project manager, referring to odors from the gelatin building. "If you can control odors from within the building, you don't have to worry about them getting out."

"If the case of the basins

[for byproduct waste], when we say a significant reduction, there are three categories [of measuring a bad odor]. Over 90 percent of the samples we've looked at are in that low category," Desrochers later commented."

The bottom line?

"Woburn Health Agent Jack Fralick, reiterating a point made by the Kraft consultant, stressed that there was a big difference between a scientific measure of success and what is considered progress to abutting residents... If they can still smell it, it stinks." ...

Athletes & Activities

by Paul Feely

MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA: How many NBA titles did the Lakers win in Minneapolis before relocating to Los Angeles? Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

SENIOR JACQUI BARRETT (WOBURN, MA), who owned the top throw in the shot put virtually all season, made it official at the NCAA Division II Track and Field Championship at Johnson C. Smith's Irwin Belk Complex.

Saving her best career throw for her last college competition, Barrett threw 50 feet, 8.25 inches on her second attempt - marking the first-ever time she eclipsed 50 feet - to win the national championship.

"After my first throw, I knew it was solid enough to get me to the final," said Barrett. "I had it in my head that I was already there and I just needed to put it together. When I threw 50', I knew that it was either going to be good for first or second. I knew how the other women could throw. But no one wanted this more than I did."

Barrett becomes the women's track and field program's third-ever national champion and second titlist in four years, joining former distance runner Nicole Plante, who won the 10,000 meters in 2007; and Jane Servi, who captured the high jump at the 1988 NCAA indoor championship.

"All I wanted from her was 50 feet and I got a lot more than that," said UMass Lowell's throws coach Barbara Smith, who has coached three UMass Lowell athletes who finished runners-up: Heather Oldham in 2003, Enjoli Edwards in 2006 and Barrett at the 2010 indoors.

"Jacqui came into this meet much different," Smith added. "She walked in like she belonged here. She was unbelievable. She has so much confidence. The meet has been tough because there was delay after delay on Friday, and you wonder how that is going to affect her."

The shot put was originally scheduled for Friday night at 7:30, but most of Friday's events were postponed to Saturday due to a series of lightning and rain delays.

Barrett, whose personal best throw was 49' 11.75" achieved at Princeton University's Larry Ellis Invitational on Apr. 17, opened the competition with a sterling effort of 49' 3.0" and followed with the clinching distance of 50' 8.25" on her next attempt.

"When I threw it, I saw where I landed and I knew it was 50 feet, but exactly how far, I didn't know," Barrett noted. "I asked the officials if I could cross the track and I gave Barbara a huge hug. I knew Kelly Ash (of Ashland University, the runner-up) had to beat me on her last throw, but I had one more attempt after her. I don't even remember my last throw."

Barrett followed with distances of 49' 1.0", 43' 7.5", 46' 6.0" and 47' 6.0".

"When she threw 49' 3.0 to open the series, she came out of the circle and you could see a little swagger, as if she was saying 'I'm on today,'" said UMass Lowell Head Coach Gary Gardner. "Then she threw a bomb on her second attempt. She was really on a roll there."

Ash, who won the 2010 indoor championship in March, was the runner-up with a throw of 49' 11.25".

The title is especially meaningful following Barrett's showing at the NCAA indoors, when she held the top spot with a toss of 49' 4.25 until Ash won it with the final throw of the competition, 51' 1.0".

Barrett's progress this season is all the more remarkable considering she finished 15th at the NCAA Championship a year ago with a distance of 43' 5.0, her first NCAA appearance.

"I think it's my confidence, just growing up and being more mature," Barrett said. "I decided to be more positive this year. From day one I just put everything into practice. I'm here for a reason."

Added Gardner: "I think getting into and doing well in a lot of big meets has been a huge difference this year. She's at a level where even on a bad day, she could end up an All-American."

Lost in Barrett's monumental day was the fact that she edged the school record - previously 50' 8.0" by Oldham in 2003 - by a quarter inch.

Need some help with this week's question? The number is greater than 3 and less than 10.

KEENE STATE COLLEGE'S CHANDLER (WAKEFIELD, MASS.) has been named to the ECAC Division III New England Softball All-Star team announced recently.

A first-team selection, Chandler had a super sophomore season playing both first base and in the outfield for KSC.

The Owls' lead-off batter, Chandler led the team in hitting (.396) with seven home runs and 16 RBIs. She was also successful in 18 of her 24 stolen base attempts.

Finishing its season with a 29-14-1 record, Keene State captured its second straight ECAC New England Championship this past season.

CORY SPINALE (WAKEFIELD, MA) concluded his stellar career a two-time All-American, earning first-team honors by the USILA.

Spinale, a two-time Northeast-10 Goalkeeper of the Year, was an All-American honorable mention as a sophomore, his first year at Merrimack.

A two-time captain, Spinale led Merrimack to its first Northeast-10 Championship since 2000 and recorded a 13-3 record, with a 6.44 goals-against and a .642 save percentage. In the conference championship victory at #1 Le Moyne, Spinale stopped 12 shots in the overtime win.

Spinale is the lone goaltender in the country on the All-American first team.

Top-seeded Curry College captured the 2010 ECAC Division III New England Baseball Championship, defeating third-seeded Wentworth, 22-10, on the campus of Bentley University in Waltham on Sunday. Colonels' junior catcher Brad Hawn (Chino Hills, Calif.) went 6-for-6 with seven runs scored in the title game, and was named as the Tournament's Most Outstanding Player.

Curry's potent offensive attack produced runs in all but the third inning. Through two frames, the Colonels held a 5-0 advantage on RBI hits by seniors JESSE BRUNSMA (LYNNFIELD, MASS.), Tim Sweeney (Walpole, Mass.) and RICK VAIL (LYNNFIELD, MASS.), and sophomore Brian Morante (Westwood, Mass.).

The Leopards fought back with three runs in the third and three more in the fourth to briefly take a 6-5 lead. Key hits during the Wentworth rally included a two-run double by junior Ben Danker (Branford, Conn) and a bases-loaded triple by sophomore Conner Flisnik (Marcy, N.Y.).

After a Morante sacrifice fly tied the game in the fourth, the Colonels exploded for 16 runs over the final four frames off five different Wentworth hurlers. Curry sent 10 men to the plate in the fifth, scoring five times, then extended the lead to 13-6 in the sixth on a two-run single by Sweeney.

The Leopards cut the lead to 13-9 with a three-run seventh, but the Colonels responded with six more in the bottom of the frame, highlighted by a bases-clearing triple by Vail.

ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: The Lakers won five - in 1949, 1950, 1952, 1953 and 1954. They won their first championship in Los Angeles in 1972.

Museum From S-1

development of Natural Mysteries, where visitors solve mysteries using objects from the Museum's collections, walk-in dioramas, and interactive displays.

"The really big cognitive learning idea behind Natural Mysteries was collecting and classifying," said Durham. "We start with getting funding, then we get together a very diverse group of people to work on the team, graphic designers, interior designers, etc. Then we have scientific advisors from the outside. When people think of classifying insects, they think of someone sitting in a basement pinning insects to a board. That's not why these experts got into it - it all starts in the field. So we thought it would be interesting to create these walk-in dioramas that shows where it starts - the collecting of objects and insects out in the field. Here you are, the scientist in the field, and you need to collect the specimens and classify them. What's interesting between the two exhibits we just saw is that they are both based on dioramas, but they are two generations apart."

Now Durham (who lives in an historic 150-year-old home in Reading with husband Karl, and children Erica, 11, and Alec, 9), is working on a renewable energy exhibit that will explain how 154 solar panels on the museum's roof can "power" the Theater of Electricity's lightning shows.

"The newest exhibit we are working on is a solar exhibit that we did a few years ago that we would like to update, and we're doing a new renewable energy exhibit, with a focus on New England," said Durham. "There's a lot of exciting innovations taking place in New England. We have a very large flat roof on the roof of the theater, so we thought wouldn't it be fun if we put up enough solar photovoltaic panels to power the Theater of Electricity. Not that anyone in their home has a theater of electricity, or anything bigger than a refrigerator, but this is more fun than powering a refrigerator."

"The panels are bringing in power at a steady rate, depending on the time of day and other factors, and the theater is using electricity in big bursts, so it's also a bit of a math problem at work there. A lot of the things we do here involve critical thinking, with math, science and engineering all working together."

Durham heads up a very creative team of individuals, a department where new ideas are sparked as frequently as the bright flashes produced in the Theater of Electricity.

"My goal is to create an atmosphere where our exhibit team feels free to take risks, come up with new ideas, and build exhibits that visitors love," says Durham.

With a team of 30 exhibit planners, designers, curators, fabricators, exhibit maintenance staff, and other experts, she works to make exhibits accessible to as many people as possible, using imagination, ingenuity, and leadership.

She and her team have worked on the development of innovative Technology

Showcase exhibits, such as Beyond the X-Ray. She also contributed to the creation of the Nanotechnology exhibit which explores how scientists manipulate matter on a very tiny scale to build materials and devices. Recently, she's been busy overhauling the 'Investigate!' exhibit to resemble a house where you can "do" science anywhere, including a living room, garage, kitchen, and bathroom.

Another good example of accessibility in exhibits can be found in one that features every species of bird found in the New England area.

"When we thought about, 'Who are bird watchers?', we found out that there are a lot of blind bird watchers," said Durham. "They do their bird watching by listening to bird calls, and they are so good at identifying the specific calls that they know exactly what birds are out there. So we created a bunch of interactives for this exhibit that are really geared towards people who want to engage only with the sound aspect of bird watching, but also a lot of visuals for the more traditional bird watchers."

Durham is also leading development of an exhibition tracing the history of the Museum of Science within the context of other museums, chronicling how the Museum's mission and focus have evolved to meet the changing needs of society over the last 180 years. The exhibit will use artifacts and smaller exhibits to depict the Museum since its founding in 1830 as the Boston Society of Natural History, its evolution into the New England Museum of Natural History in 1864, and its growth from 1947 to 1950 into today's Museum at Science Park, one of the world's largest science centers and New England's most attended cultural institution.

The hope is that the exhibit will open by the end of December.

Heartview melds indoor & outdoor living

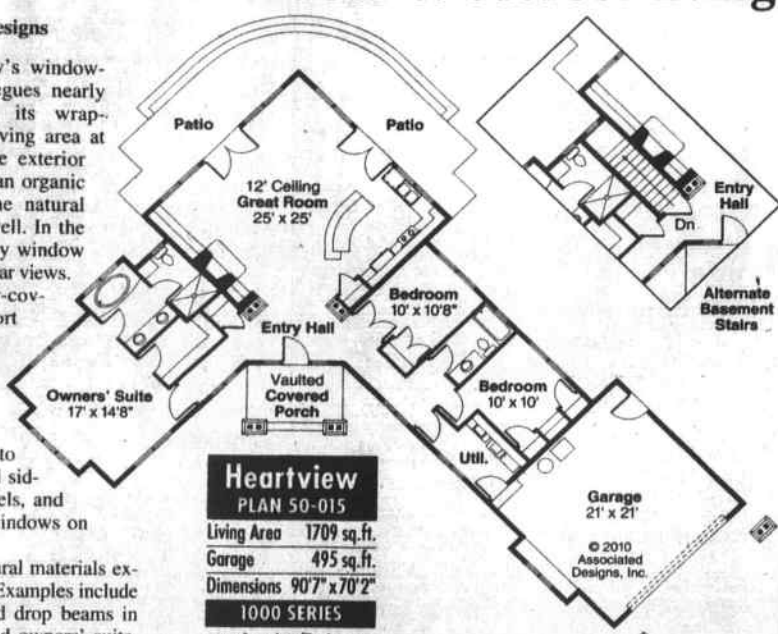

By Associated Designs

The Heartview's window-bright interior segues nearly seamlessly into its wrap-around outside living area at the rear. And the exterior materials ensure an organic blending with the natural environment as well. In the right setting, every window can offer spectacular views.

Stone veneer-covered bases support slender posts that frame the front porch and garage overhang. These run a harmonious counterpoint to the shake-textured siding, wooden corbels, and Craftsman-style windows on all sides.

The use of natural materials extends throughout. Examples include handsome exposed drop beams in the great room and owners' suite, and wooden posts set on tapered stone veneer bases that flank the entry hall.

An expansive great room sits at the heart of the home. A kitchen fills one side, across a curved and raised eating bar. On the other inner wall, a stone veneer fireplace nestles between a home entertainment center and a stack of shelves. Sparkling glass fills around 80 to 90% of the two exterior walls. Craftsman windows flank atrium doors that access the patio, and each window set is crowned by a row of multipaned windows.

Windowed hallways lead off to the right and left of the entry hall. The right branch goes to two secondary bedrooms, a bathroom, and a pass-through utility room linked to the two-car garage. The left hallway channels you into the Heartview's sumptuous owners' suite.

Drop beams create an interesting grid over the sleeping area, and a cushy window seat would fit nicely into the room's rectangular window bay. Other luxury touches include a deep walk-in closet and a two-section bathroom with a spa tub and double vanity. The toilet and shower are separately enclosed for privacy and steam containment.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $25 to Associated Designs, 1100 Jacobs Dr., Eugene, OR 97402. Please Specify the Heartview 50-015 and include a return address when ordering. A catalog featuring 550 home plans is available for $15. For more information, call (800) 634-0123, or visit our website at www.AssociatedDesigns.com.

Summer From S-8

* Dehydration: Couple hot weather with outdoor exertion and a person can quickly get thirsty. Failure to replenish liquid lost through sweating and activity can result in dehydration. Fainting, feeling nauseous and headaches can occur.

* Food poisoning: Hot weather and improperly stored food can result in food poisoning. If you'll be eating outdoors, cold foods must remain cold and hot foods should be kept warm to prevent spoilage. Don't eat any food that has been sitting outside for more than an hour. Food poisoning symptoms often come on suddenly and can include vomiting and diarrhea.

* Insects: Bugs love warm weather, too. Mosquitos, bees, wasps, spiders, and all of the other winged and multi-legged creatures come out from their roosts when the temperature climbs. It's more common for people to come in contact with potentially poisonous or bothersome insects.

* Water: Drownings in pools, lakes and rivers definitely increase as the weather gets warmer. Always practice the utmost care in and around water. Safety vests are essential.

* Vehicles: Longer amounts of sunshine tend to keep people outdoors longer. This can mean running errands or cruising around with the top down. With more cars on the road, vehicular accidents can increase, primarily when alcohol is involved.

Enjoy your summer by staying safe and avoiding common dangers.
